HUERTA MUST SALUTE BEFORE 6 SUNDAY NIGHT.

Or President Will Go Before Congress Monday With Message.

Seizure of Tampico and Vera Cruz Will be Made Without Waiting for the Fleet.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Huerta will salute the American flag at Tampico before 6 p. m. Sunday or President Wilson will go before Congress in a joint session Monday and ask for authority to take such measures as may be necessary. The following statement was issued at the White House:

"General Huerta is still insisting upon doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the government of the United States.

"The President has determined that if General Huerta has not yielded by 6 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, he will take the matter to Congress on Monday."

Secretary Bryan prepared President Wilson's answer, which was immediately sent to Mexico City. It set forth that, unless Huerta accepts the American demands immediately, the plan for seizure of Tampico and Vera Cruz will be carried out without waiting for Admiral Badger to reach Mexican waters. The plan also includes the seizure of the railway from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, as far as a trestle about 20 miles west of Vera Cruz.

Armored cruiser South Dakota, with 260 marines, was ordered to sail today from the Bremerton yard to San Diego, Cal., there to await further orders.

While President Wilson's message was in transmission to Mexico orders were flashing out from the Navy Department, setting all the forces already in Mexican waters in readiness to enforce its terms. There were no orders to the troops at Texas City.

Public officials announced that unless Huerta saluted the flag, according to President Wilson's demand, as soon after receipt of today's message as was physically possible, action would be taken without any further exchanges.

Members of the cabinet were summoned to the White House for conference. Postmaster General Burleson was the first to arrive. Others left their offices and hurried to the executive offices in their motor cars.

As President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Secretary Tumulty returned to the White House offices their faces were very grave and they were silent. All callers and those who had engagements with Mr. Wilson were turned away with the word that "very grave business" was being considered.

Secretary Bryan explained that the President's statement meant that Huerta would be obliged to guarantee the salute without qualifications by 6 p. m. Sunday and that physical obstacles might defer its being actually fired by that hour.

The scene which attended the morning developments was very dramatic. President Wilson had gone, as is his usual Saturday habit, across the Potomac to a secluded little club where he plays golf. When Charge O'Shaughnessy's despatches were deciphered and their importance became known to Secretary Bryan and Mr. Tumulty, a hurried attempt was made to reach the President on the telephone. Secretary Bryan and Mr. Tumulty started in a fast automobile, and while they were rushing across the Virginia hills the White House telephones had succeeded in reaching the President, who hurried back to the clubhouse and started for Washington.

Secretary Bryan and Mr. Tumulty met the President out on a dusty road, and in the sun of a bright blue day the important despatches were communicated and the journey was continued to the White House. The President went at once to his study, where he wrote his statement giving Huerta until 6 o'clock Sunday night. He typed it himself upon his personal typewriter, as is his custom with important official documents.

Then he decided that, inasmuch as [illegible] only would be no action [illegible] tomorrow night, he would [illegible] and go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., any way, and bring Mrs. Wilson back to Washington.

There was no activity at the War Department and no orders were issued for the troops at Texas City.

At the State Department Secretary Bryan called a hurried conference with John Lind, who has just returned from an eight months' stay in Huerta's country. After the conference Mr. Bryan hurried back to the White House, where other cabinet officers had collected and with grave faces, the officials discussed the department's communications.

"The temporizing is ended," said one of the cabinet officers who is personally close to Mr. Wilson. "We have the punch, we know it, and we are going to deliver it. Huerta has had his last chance."

While the text of Huerta's message today and the President's reply are not made public, it became known that Huerta contended that all the offenses for which the United States asks apology have been apologized for and that "he demurs at anything further."

Officials pointed out that the naval forces at Vera Cruz and Tampico were sufficient to carry out the President's plans without waiting for the arrival of Admiral Badger's fleet. Transport Hancock has already arrived at Tampico with 800 marines. Battleships Virginia, Connecticut and Minnesota and cruisers Des Moines, Dolphin and San Francisco are also there, Scout cruisers Chester and Buffalo also are at Tampico, with collier Cyclops. At Vera Cruz are battleships Florida and Utah and transport Prairie, the latter having a large complement of marines. Rear Admiral Maya commands the ships at Tampico and Rear Admiral Fletcher commands at Vera Cruz. When Rear Admiral Badger arrives he will take supreme command.

Flagship Arkansas, with the other ships under Admiral Badger, were off Key West last night, making about 10½ knots, and at that rate would reach Tampico by Tuesday. Orders from Washington, however, putting the new fast ships under forced draught would bring them into Tampico Monday, prepared for action if President Wilson has to lay the situation before Congress. The fact that the Senate was not in session today, having adjourned over until Monday, is said by some officials to be the reason the President takes the matter over until Monday.

Huerta's final defiance came as a distinct surprise to some officials and confirmed the suspicions of others, who never have believed the dictator was sincere in his promise to Charge O'Shaughnessy last Tuesday. In some circles there is a conviction that Huerta, beset with internal troubles and menaced by the continuing advance of his enemies from the north, is bent on making trouble with the United States, in the hope of uniting the warring Mexican factions in a common cause. Officials here, however, do not expect that the rebels, with whom the United States has no quarrel, will be concerned in the quarrel with Huerta.

The board of aides, which with Secretary Daniels is the executive force of the navy, went into a secret conference to complete plans for the movements of the fleet and marines.

The President has not made known what plan of action he will lay before Congress, but the discussion up to this time has indicated that the next decisive step will be one of those measures described by international law authorities as measures short of war, known as reprisal or pacific blockade.

TABER'S NEW RECORD.

Oxford Relay Team, After Short Practice, Leaves for Philadelphia.

PROVIDENCE, April 18.—The Oxford relay team, after a short workout at the Brown University track, left on the 11 o'clock train today for Philadelphia, where they will compete next Saturday in the international college four-mile championship relay.

Captain A. N. S. Jackson gave a short exhibition of his wonderful stride, but did not attempt to run any distance, and the other Englishmen jogged around the track leisurely. "This is a novelty for us," Jackson commented. "We never run in the morning at home. We have all the afternoons to practice."

Norman S. Taber, who went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar from Brown, did a half-mile with some of the Brown team and made a new record for the track—1:56. Coach Eddie O'Connor and Dr. Fred W. Marvel, athletic director, confidently expected Taber to beat Jackson a week from today.

New York and Boston Bankers Complete Plans to Raise $65,000,000.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The syndicate of New York and Boston bankers, which is financing the needs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, has virtually completed arrangements to raise about $65,000,000 for the road.

The financial plan, which involves the issue of $20,000,000 three-year 6 per cent. notes of the New England Navigation Company, provides also for the purchase of about $45,000,000 treasury assets of the New Haven company and, will include an issue of $20,000,000 one-year 6 per cent notes of the Harlem River & Port Chester Railroad Co., now held in the treasury of the New Haven company, together with other miscellaneous stocks. The bankers are submitting the final details of the financial plan to Chairman Howard Elliott of the New Haven road, who is in Boston today.

TWO MEN ASPHYXIATED.

Gas Pipe Hose Accidentally Disconnected from Stove in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, April 17.—The accidental disconnecting of a rubber gas hose between the pipe and a stove caused the asphyxiation of two men in a Fountain street stable early today. The men were William Ralph, employed in the stable, and Hugh Sweeney, his brother-in-law, whom Ralph had invited to sleep with him in his room in the stable. It is the theory of the police and medical examiner that the men knocked the stove over some time during the night, disconnecting the hose.

MAHONEY ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER ATTEMPT.

Mitchel's Would-Be Assassin Held in $26,000 Bail.

Polk, Victim of Bullet, Resting Quietly in New York Hospital.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Michael P. Mahoney, who yesterday attempted to assassinate Mayor Mitchel and in so doing wounded Frank L. Polk, corporation counsel, was arraigned in The Tombs police court today, on a charge of attempted murder in the first degree. He was held in $25,000 bail for the action of the grand jury. When the amount of the bail was announced by Magistrate Sinun, Mahoney smiled broadly and said: "Why not boost it a little. The more the merrier."

Mr. Polk was resting quietly at the New York Hospital today. Surgeons expect he will recover rapidly if no complications develop. He spent a comfortable night and seemed to be greatly refreshed today.

Before his arraignment Mahoney was taken to police headquarters, where 250 detectives, all masked, "looked him over." None of them was positive he had ever seen the man before. Mahoney was awakened at 8 a. m after being allowed four hours sleep. Until 4 o'clock he was questioned by detectives. He explained that when he bought the revolver he fired yesterday, he told the man who sold it to him in Jersey City that he "wanted to kill a rat."

Mahoney faces a possible prison sentence of 20 years, but should he be adjudged insane, he will be committed to an asylum for the criminal insane.

From the many incoherent letters written by Mahoney, in which he attacked the official acts of Mayor Mitchel of this city, of Mayor Armstrong of Pittsburgh and of Colonel Goethals, governor of the Panama canal zone, and after a two hours' study of the man, District Attorney Whitman expressed the opinion that Mahoney was one of the "embittered and sodden type of hobo." This statement indicated that the district attorney would not oppose action to have the prisoner adjudged insane. Mr. Whitman said that while the best course might be to have Mahoney confined in an asylum, the mayor and Mr. Polk must be consulted before a final decision is reached.

The attempted assassination by Mahoney caused Police Commissioner Arthur Woods today to assign a secret service squad of eight men, under command of a police captain, to guard Mayor Mitchel.

Mayor Mitchel, after seeing that Mr. Polk was made as comfortable as possible at the New York hospital, returned to his office and finished the day there as customary. Last night he attended a dinner at the New York Press Club, where he told the members of that organization that he had expected some such happening as the act of Mahoney, but that "it does seem unfair that anyone else should have to take the consequences of the hazard that properly belongs to me."

The mayor went on to say that he did not believe the attack on him was due to the concerted action of a group of agitators. "When such a thing as that happens," he said, "it is the product of the disordered brain of some unfortunate individual—the man who does not think straight, who warps the facts that he partly gathers from the daily press in recording the action of the government."

To Police Captain Thomas Tunney, the mayor's would-be assissin said he had called at the city hall to remonstrate with Mayor Mitchel and had been "insulted" there. "I then decided to kill him," he said. "I went down to the city hall Wednesday with the intention of killing him then, but I cooled off. Today (Friday), I went down there again with the intention of finishing the job."

The prisoner told of waiting from 10 o'clock until the mayor and his party started to enter their automobile shortly after 1 o'clock, and how he stood barely five feet from the object of his fancied hatred when he fired. He expressed regret that he had attempted to take Mayor Mitchel's life and was particularly sorry that the bullet had hit Mr. Polk.

Mahoney was born March 17, 1842, near Cork, Ireland, and came to this country about 60 years ago. In his diary and in conversations with Captain Tunney, Mahoney appeared to have a special grievance against the Masons and Odd Fellows, and he also appeared to hold notions of wrongs against Andrew Carnegie, and to have visionary ideas as to the proper conduct of the police department.

GOULD AND HUHN WIN.

Defeat Fearing and Russell in Final Match of Tennis Doubles.

BOSTON, April 18.—Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn of Philadelphia successfully defended their title of national court tennis doubles champions today, by defeating George R. Fearing, Jr., and C. T. Russell of this city in the final match of the doubles championship contest at the Tennis and Racquet Club. Gould and Huhn won in straight sets, 6-5, 6-5, 6-4.

The quality of tennis displayed was said by close followers of the sport to be the best ever seen at the local club. The Boston pair directed their attack at Huhn, who grew stronger as the match progressed and demonstrated a wonderful ability to make the returns.

HUERTA MUST SALUTE BEFORE 6 SUNDAY NIGHT.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Huerta will salute the American flag at Tampico before 6 p. m. Sunday or President Wilson will go before Congress in a joint session Monday and ask for authority to take such measures as may be necessary. The following statement was issued at the White House:

"General Huerta is still insisting upon doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the government of the United States.

Last night he attended a dinner at the New York Press Club, where he told the members of that organization that he had expected some such happening as the act of Mahoney, but that "it does seem unfair that anyone else should have to take the consequences of the hazard that properly belongs to me."

The mayor went on to say that he did not believe the attack on him was due to the concerted action of a group of agitators. "When such a thing as that happens," he said, "it is the product of the disordered brain of some unfortunate individual—the man who does not think straight, who warps the facts that he partly gathers from the daily press in recording the action of the government."

To Police Captain Thomas Tunney, the mayor's would-be assassin said he had called at the city hall to remonstrate with Mayor Mitchel and had been "insulted" there. "I then decided to kill him," he said. "I went down to the city hall Wednesday with the intention of killing him then, but I cooled off. Today (Friday), I went down there again with the intention of finishing the job."

The prisoner told of waiting from 10 o'clock until the mayor and his party started to enter their automobile shortly after 1 o'clock, and how he stood barely five feet from the object of his fancied hatred when he fired. He expressed regret that he had attempted to take Mayor Mitchel's life and was particularly sorry that the bullet had hit Mr. Polk.

Mahoney was born March 17, 1842, near Cork, Ireland, and came to this country about 40 years ago. In his diary and in conversations with Captain Tunney, Mahoney appeared to have a special grievance against the Masons and Odd Fellows, and he also appeared to hold notions of wrongs against Andrew Carnegie, and to have visionary ideas as to the proper conduct of the police department.

GOULD AND HUHN WIN.

Defeat Fearing and Russell in Final Match of Tennis Doubles.

BOSTON, April 18.—Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn of Philadelphia successfully defended their title of national court tennis doubles champions today, by defeating George R. Fearing, Jr., and C. T. Russell of this city in the final match of the doubles championship contest at the Tennis and Racquet Club. Gould and Huhn won in straight sets, 6-5, 6-3, 6-4.

The quality of tennis displayed was said by close followers of the sport to be the best ever seen at the local club. The Boston pair directed their attack at Huhn, who grew stronger as the match progressed and demonstrated a wonderful ability to make the returns.

ceeded and the charter allows $700,000, but the by-laws had not been changed to conform to the facts. The loans were limited to $500,000, but there are now existing $566,925 in loans. So on through the list, the forfeited account being the only one of importance and that only in the wording, as already explained.

After the reading of the proposed amendments they were received and referred to the next annual meeting, when they can be acted upon.

Mr. Pitman then read a tribute to the late President, Captain Joseph P Cotton, with whom he had been a worker for the organization of the Association and ever since. It was the tribute of a friend and of an associate. At the conclusion he offered a resolution of regret on the death of the late president. He stated that the directors already had passed an appropriate resolution, but he believed the stockholders also would like to pass one, and he offered this. It was unanimously adopted and ordered placed on the records.

Mr. Pitman also called attention to the fact that a fund, to be called the Cotton Memorial, the interest to be used to further matters of public interest along the line of the activities of the late president, has been started. He suggested that it would be a pleasing method of showing appreciation of the hard work done by the late president of the Association in his many years of hard work, if each member would contribute something to the fund, not in excess of a dollar each. Mr. T. P. Peckham is treasurer of the fund.

The annual election of officers was next in order and the chairman appointed J. G. Costello, J. P. Peckham and G. H. Comstock tellers.

For president, to succeed Captain Cotton, whose place he had been filling, T. P. Peckham named Andrew K. McMahon, the vice president, and a member who Mr Peckham said had filled in various offices at times, is always on hand and has been a willing worker. He was unanimously elected.

For vice president William H. Langley, of the board of trustees, was unanimously elected. Thomas P. Peckham and James T. Kaull, treasurer and secretary, were unanimously re-elected.

For directors there were 10 nominations. There were really two vacancies to be filled, as Packer Braman, elected by the directors to fill temporarily the vacancy caused by the resignation of G. A. Pritchard, had never been voted on by the stockholders, and some one was to be chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Director Langley to be vice president. The old directors—William C. Scott, Thomas B. Congdon, Edward O. Riggs, T. T. Pitman, Alexander O'Hanley and Packer Braman—were re-nominated. In addition John R. Austin, John Mahan, Daniel E. Doherty and T. J. Williams were named.

While the stockholders' vote on the directors was being counted there was a general talk fest, in which President McMahon, Vice President Langley, Treasurer Peckham and Mr. Pitman shared. There was talk about the shortage of money compared with the demand for loans, some ideas about improving conditions were offered by the officers and members, and there was a more general discussion of matters of vital interest to the Association than for a long time.

After the announcement of the vote for directors the old auditors were re-elected without opposition. The officers-elect are:

President—Andrew K. McMahon.
Vice President—William H. Langley.
Treasurer—Thomas P. Peckham.
Secretary—James T. Kaull.
Directors—Thomas B. Congdon, William C. Scott, T. T. Pitman, A. R. O'Hanley, John Mahan, Edward O. Riggs, Packer Braman.
Auditors—J. G. Costello, W. H. Walcott, J. P. Peckham.

The fifty-third series of stock is open and it is hoped that the subscriptions will make this the biggest issue of stock in the history of the Association. This is the season for new members to try, if they can save enough to make it an object to do so, and it has been decided to hold the series open for a week or more, to give all a fair opportunity to go to the office in the Free Library building and subscribe. The Association needs the money, for, as the members saw and as many know, the demand for money for new houses is far in excess of the supply and investing members are needed.

The idea of the Association is safety and that idea has always been foremost in the management, and again it was emphasized in what the officers said about proposed changes in the manner of conducting the Association.

SHOT A COWBIRD.

Joseph Vito Pays $22.60 for Violation of the State Statute.

Friday afternoon a special session of the district court was held, at which Joseph Vito pleaded guilty to shooting a cowbird. The shooting took place near the gun factory and the cowbird belied its name as to size, being about the dimensions of an English sparrow. However, it was a bird which cannot legally be shot, and hence the arrest, by Charles R. Harrington, in behalf of the game warden. The prisoner paid $22.60. A barrel of the birds would not have been worth $22.60, but Vito was the victim. Others have been doing promiscuous shooting about the island and the game warden has been on the lookout for them, and Vito was caught.

There are few birds now living which can legally be shot and owners of guns should know what they can shoot before taking ammunition into the country. The game may cost more than the hunting outfit. All insectivorous birds, which rid trees of insects, are protected from shooting.

ARRIVAL OF DESTROYER BALCH.

Torpedo boat destroyer Balch, Lieutenant Commander David F. Hanrahan in command, has arrived at the Torpedo Station from the Philadelphia navy yard. The vessel is of 1036 tons and of the same class as the Aylwin, Parker and Benham, now comprising the Seventh Division of the Atlantic torpedo fleet. The Balch was built by the Cramps at Philadelphia and has recently been placed in commission. She will receive her outfit from the Torpedo Station and remain here to wait for her orders.

ECZEMA DISFIGURED BABY TERRIBLY

Body All Broken Out in Water Blisters, Itched So Had to Muffle Hands. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Never Troubled Since.

Ridgefield, Conn. — "My baby was cross and restless and fretted night and day. One morning I discovered that her body was all broken out in small water blisters and I was told she had the eczema the worst way. The eruption first looked like little water blisters, then it turned so it looked like a piece of raw meat. It itched so badly that we had to muffle the baby's hands to protect it spreading all over her face. It certainly disfigured her terribly and she could not rest at night. Her clothing was very irritating to the body and when it was removed her body was raw. We had her treated for about two months when it spread all over her body, face and head and seemed to grow worse all the time.

"I took good warm water and Cuticura Soap and lathered it all over her and allowed it to dry on and then when it was thoroughly dry I applied the Cuticura Ointment. In about a week I could see a big change and in three weeks you never would have known she ever had eczema and she never has been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. George Coe, Nov. 20, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

AKRON LAND DRAIN TILE.

"The AKRON is the STRONGEST and BEST tile in use. It is VITRIFIED, consequently it will NOT disintegrate by the action of FROST or SOIL. As all familiar with underdrainage are aware, the water enters the tile through the JOINTS, and is not, as some imagine, absorbed—to any extent—through the body of the tile itself. Water will not flow through even a soft burned piece of tile except under pressure; the ware will absorb the water until the pores are filled, but it will not pass through except it be forced; therefore, as the softer the tile is, the more water it will absorb, and the less durable it is. All Land Tile should be hard burned, and take water from the soil wholly through the joints.

This was the announcement made today at the local offices of the New Haven. The arrangements, it was said, would take care of all the New Haven notes. Certain details have not been settled, but it is expected they will be adjusted in the near future. At a conference today between Chairman Elliott and the banking syndicate handling the New Haven's finances, details of the situation were to be gone over.

ECZEMA DISFIGURED BABY TERRIBLY

Body All Broken Out in Water Blisters. Itched So Had to Muffle Hands. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Never Troubled Since.

Ridgefield, Conn. — "My baby was cross and restless and fretted night and day. One morning I discovered that her body was all broken out in small water blisters and I was told she had the eczema the worst way. The eruption first looked like little water blisters, then it turned so it looked like a piece of raw meat. It itched so badly that we had to muffle the baby's hands to protect it spreading all over her face. It certainly disfigured her terribly and she could not rest at night. Her clothing was very irritating to the body and when it was removed her body was raw. We had her treated for about two months when it spread all over her body, face and head and seemed to grow worse all the time.

"I took good warm water and Cuticura Soap and bathed it all over her and allowed it to dry on and then when it was thoroughly dry I applied the Cuticura Ointment. In about a week I could see a big change and in three weeks you never would have known she ever had eczema and she never has been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. George Coe, Nov. 20, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

AKRON LAND DRAIN TILE.

"The AKRON is the STRONGEST and BEST tile in use. It is VITRIFIED, consequently it will NOT disintegrate by the action of FROST or SOIL. As all familiar with under drainage are aware, the water enters the tile through the JOINTS, and is not, as some imagine, absorbed—to any extent—through the body of the tile itself. Water will not flow through even a soft burned piece of tile except under pressure; the ware will absorb the water until the pores are filled, but it will not pass through except it be forced; therefore, as the softer the tile is, the more water it will absorb, and the less durable it is. All Land Tile should be hard burned, and take water from the soil wholly through the joints.

TRADITIONS LOST TO WELLESLEY.

College Hall Held Many Associations Dear to the Girls by Lake Waban.

Wellesley without College Hall! How impossible to think of one without the other! That is the way former students of the College by Lake Waban have felt ever since the news of the disastrous fire. Not even pride in the discipline and self control that prevented terrible loss of life has mitigated their grief for the destruction of the building that harbored so many memories of the past. Distress over the large financial loss has been forgotten in regret for those things that cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents—traditions and associations of years that are gone.

College Hall was the pioneer of the many buildings that house the manifold activities of Wellesley. When, in 1871, that strangely fascinating compound of worldly brilliance and saintly enthusiasm, Henry Fowle Durant, founded a college for women on the site of his family estate, he erected this nucleus of the college life on the highest point of the 350 acres, overlooking the lake, and commanding a beautiful view of his own home and the Italian garden of the Hunewell family. Architecturally it had little to commend it but a certain dignity of size and situation. It belonged to that type of architecture labelled "American" by a jesting designer, "a three-story brick with a mansard roof." Only in this case there were five stories, and the brick was veiled during the passing of the years by trailing ivy.

There was no lack of intention to make College Hall beautiful. The fault lay in the date of its erection. The period jocosely termed 'early General Grant' did not produce architectural triumphs. Within, it was as charming as cultivated taste could make it. Whatever happens, said one distressed graduate, "the new building must have a 'Centre.' By 'Centre' she means the open court around which the Hall was built. As the visitor stepped from the college barge, the all-enforcing station omnibus, she left the shelter of the porte-cochere for the spacious welcome of the 'Centre.' Tall palms and light streamed down from the skylight above.

How many aspects the Centre wore! There was the hour after chapel in the morning, when girls, hurrying to lecture-room and laboratory, stopped long enough to buy a bunch of sweet peas or a rose from the flower venders, who stood under the palms with their wares. The Centre knew the tread of masculine feet when junior 'Prom' and senior reception filled the corridors with alien presences. There the girls assembled to welcome with cheer and song distinguished guests. There the president held open house and returning alumnae formed in line for their march to the yearly luncheon. A gigantic Niobe in the south corner was a trysting place for hundreds of girls.

The wide corridors beyond the parlors led to the south porch, overlooking the lake. Never again will undergraduates halt admiring fathers and mothers to point out the art treasures that lined its walls. Elihu Vedder's Cumaean Sibyl was but one of many beautiful pictures that hung there.

And what has become of "Harriet?" Alas for the Wellesley girls of the future if she has not survived. One tradition has gone beyond hope of replacement. Amherst has her "Sabrina," Wellesley has had "Harriet." Just to the right of the palms of the centre stood an heroic marble figure of Harriet Martineau seated in a large chair. In the dim days of the early eighties it was considered a triumph of recklessness for the undergraduate to successfully elude the notice of Charles, the night watchman, and Miss Tuttle, the Argus-eyed guardian of the proprieties, to climb up into Harriet's lap and embrace that unresponsive worthy. Later classes, limited in the matter of permitting hazing, found "Harriet" an ingenious medium of teaching freshmen to know their proper place. 'Putting the freshmen through Harriet' occurred on Hallowe'en. Each little wearer of the green was shoved college this was the most beautiful the chair and the pedestal, assisted none too gently by attendant sophomores, while upper-class girls and faculty enjoyed the fun. Thin girls found the course in 'Harriet' easy, plump ones found marble as unyielding as spherical trigonometry or freshman Latin.

Another place to which every Wellesley girl led her friends with evident pride was the Browning-room. Of all the reception rooms of the college this was the most beautiful. Mr. Durant consciously planned to make the setting of Wellesley life artistic. To this end he planted the grounds with the care of a landscape gardener. To this end he bought Wedgewood china for the dining room. Even if a piece or two of the rockwood furniture the gift of the Mikado to Wellesley is saved from the wreckage, there never again can be duplicated the ensemble—the frieze in oils of the wild flowers of the neighborhood, the stained glass windows illustrating Mrs. Browning's poem, "The Romance of the Swan's Nest," the statue of 'The Reading Girl,' the autograph letters of the Brownings, the carved cabinets and chairs and tables. The Browning-room must be perforce, thing of the past.

Next the old dining room perhaps the least attractive feature of College Hall has a place in the picture of the past. On its walls hung portraits of former presidents. In its great alcoved windows famous men and women have dined. There were kept the last of the blue and white Wedgewood platers and pitchers, whose hard usage shattered one of Mr. Durant's dreams of the ideal college. All I can even think pleasantly of is a pantry near by, where once I watched the breakfast silver sighed over to whom College Hall had been home for three years in the days of domestic service.

If we leave the centre and turn to the left, memory once more stirs, and we refuse to believe that never again will we step inside the old library. Fortunately for the college its large collection of books has been domiciled for two years in the new building, near the Rhododendron Hollow. But to the alumnae the library has always been the old room, sombre in oak, with its recesses and quiet balcony nooks, its collections of hours spent over English and history reference, its delights of Miss Hodgkins, Miss Morton, Miss Stratton, Miss Jewett, of honored instructors past and present, whose guidance led to the well-filled shelves. There are those who recall as well the dominating personality of Professor Horsford of Harvard, whose generosity endowed the library and whose frequent visits made him a part of Wellesley life.

Across the way was the faculty parlor. Will there ever be a lovelier place? There on Sunday afternoons, as sunshine filtered through oak leaves, students and teachers met for after-dinner coffee or a cup of tea. There the head of College Hall dispensed a charming hospitality.

Past Diana and her stag—such a convenient resting-place for books and wraps, were you a village girl—upstairs to the chapel mounts the quickened memory of the bereft alumna. Yes, Wellesley has a new and much more beautiful chapel. But this is the Chapel. Through its door she hurried in the morning, fearful lest the monitor would close it upon her. There she heard the lecture or concert of holiday. Monday evenings. There she listened to the best of Boston's musical talent. When, last year, in Devonshire, one Wellesley girl saw on the hotel register the name of Timothee Adamowski, once first violin of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the distinguished-looking gentleman who bore it was to her merely a symbol of those marvelous evenings in the old chapel.

Crowded, inconvenient, even unbeautiful, the old chapel means Flower Sunday and Phillips Brooks; it stands for Glee Club concerts and stirring debates; it spells hushed Sunday evenings, when, lights dimmed within and shadows lengthening without, subdued voices sang favorite hymns, or young hearts thrilled response to the voice of the organ. It was there that Commencement was held, and the senior rose to receive her degree from the hands of Miss Freeman or Miss Shafer or Mrs. Irvine with eyes so misty that it was hard to see the Non ministrari sed ministrare," that talismanic text, blazoned on the wall, where each daughter of Wellesley could read it daily.

Not a single floor fails to contribute its quota to the traditions of the past.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The annual meeting of the Oliphant Club was held Friday with the president, Mrs. Kate Bailey, at her home on the West Main road. A report of the secretary, Mrs. Philip Wilbor, stated that but one meeting had been omitted throughout the year, a brief summary of the past twelve months was also given. The report of the treasurer, Miss Lizzie A. Chase, showed an unusually good balance. The call for extra funds for the Sarah Platt Decker Memorial for the use of the General Federation, met with a prompt response. Several items of importance were presented to the club for its endorsement, from the State Federation, by its director Mrs. John R. Coggeshall, in her annual report.

It being customary to elect two officers one year and three the next each for a period of two years, the following changes were made: Secretary, Mrs. John R. Coggeshall, assistant secretary, Miss Charlotte A. Chase, treasurer, Miss Lizzie A. Chase, director, Mrs. Philip Wilbor. The president, Mrs. Kate Bailey, and the vice president, Mrs. Josephine Sweet, remain in office for another year.

The program committee for 1914-1915 was appointed by the president as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Harold R. Chase, Mrs. Edward Thurston, Miss Charlotte A. Chase, Mrs. Sadie White, Mrs. William Hamilton. The new programs are to be ready at the close of the club year, June 10.

At the conclusion of the business the following program was presented by the president. Poetical quotations from each member, current events, from the Christian Herald.

Miss Sadie E. Peckham will act as hostess at the next meeting, presenting the last in the series of topics on "Music," the monthly theme, "The Four Great Masters."

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Peckham entertained the weekly cottage service of the Epworth League at their home off Wapping road Friday evening. Miss Elizabeth A. Peckham acted as leader, topic, "Personal Evangelism Under Difficulties."

Mr. George Wyatt of Wyatt road, who underwent a successful operation at his home Thursday for a glandular trouble of the neck, is doing as well as could be expected.

The April meeting of Newport County Pomona Grange with Aquidneck Grange, will inaugurate the afternoon and evening sessions, which are to be tried for the remainder of the year at every other meeting. The sessions will open at 3, supper in the vicinity of 6 and the evening meeting, which will include the lecturers' hours, at 7. The lecturer, Mrs. Arthur A. Sherman of Portsmouth, is planning a musicale. The May meeting at Jamestown will be held at the usual hour.

The new road scraper has had an excellent trial on Forest avenue and is doing good work with the ruts. It is considered rather harder on the horses than the road machine, as there is no let-up to the hard steady pulling. Its construction seems quite simple—two long parallel scrapers which level half the road at a time.

Several members of Aquidneck Grange are in attendance today at the Old Colony Massachusetts Pomona Grange at Somerset.

THE "FLYING DUTCHMAN'S" REVIEW.

[Frederick H. Martens in Lippincott's.]

Where the mid-Atlantic currents in their foam-fleck'd surges sweep,
Ho, all ye craft that sleep beneath the blue!
The shades of all the ships that ever sank beneath the deep
Meet once a year at midnight for review;
The war-triremes of Athens the galleys oared of Rome,
The sea-wolves of the Norseman and the rovers of the Dane,
Their ghosts from deeps unsounded, where their hulks lie century-grounded,
To keep the tryst of ages rise again.

And in endless ranks extended, mann'd by wraiths of wave-worn dead,
Ho, all ye craft that sleep beneath the blue!
They hoist their phantom anchors, and their phantom sails they spread
To catch the spindrift's stinging breath anew,
The privateers and pirates, the Salley brigantines,
The men-of-war of England and the galleons of Spain,
By grape and round-shot shattered, with their banners torn and tattered,
Once more aligned they ride the heaving main.

Till a phosphorescent ocean round the navies of the dead,
Ho, all ye craft that keep the rendezvous!
In milky fire upboiling shows 'neath blood-red sails outspread,
The "Flying Dutchman," admiral of the blue,
And every ghostly vessel dips its flag to him once more,
As silent, she drives past him in review,
Into oblivion sailing with her time-gnawed ensigns trailing,
In deeps unplumb'd to bide the call anew!

TRADITIONS LOST TO WELLESLEY.

College Hall Held Many Associations Dear to the Girls by Lake Waban.

Wellesley without College Hall! How impossible to think of one without the other. That is the way former students of the College by Lake Waban have felt ever since the news of the disastrous fire. Not even pride in the discipline and self control that prevented terrible los of life has mitigated their grief for the destruction of the building that harbored so many memories of the past. Distress over the large financial loss has been forgotten in regret for those things that cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents—traditions and associations of years that are gone.

College Hall was the pioneer of the many bluildings that house the manifold activities of Wellesley. When, in 1871, that strangely fascinating compound of worldly brilliance and saintly enthusiasm, Henry Fowle Durant, founded a college for women on the site of his family estate, he erected this nucleus of the college life on the highest point of the 350 acres, overlooking the lake, and commanding a beautiful view of his own home and the Italian garden of the Hunewell family. Architecturally it had little to commend it but a certain dignity of size and situation. It belonged to that type of architecture labelled "American" by a jesting designer, "a three-story brick with a mansard roof." Only in this case there were five stories, and the brick was veiled during the passing of the years by trailing ivy.

There was no lack of intention to make College Hall beautiful. The fault lay in the date of its erection. The period jocosely termed "early General Grant" did not produce architectural triumphs. Within, it was as charming as cultivated taste could make it. "Whatever happens," said one distressed graduate, "the new building must have a 'Centre.'" By "Centre" she means the open court around which the Hall was built. As the visitor stepped from the college barge, the all-embracing station omnibus, she left the shelter of the porte-cochere for the spacious welcome of the "Centre." Tall palms and light streamed down from the skylight above.

How many aspects the Centre wore! There was the hour after chapel in the morning, when girls, hurrying to lecture-room and laboratory, stopped long enough to buy a bunch of sweet peas or a rose from the flower venders, who stood under the palms with their wares. The Centre knew the tread of masculine feet when junior "Prom" and senior reception filled the corridors with alien presences. There the girls assembled to welcome with cheer and song distinguished guests. There the president held open house and returning alumnae formed in line for their march to the yearly luncheon. A gigantic Niobe in the south corner was a trysting place for hundreds of girls.

The wide corridors beyond the palms led to the south porch, overlooking the lake. Never again will undergraduates halt admiring fathers and mothers to point out the art treasures that lined its walls. Elihu Vedder's Cumaean Sibly was but one of many beautiful pictures that hung there.

And what has become of "Harriet?" Alas for the Wellesley girls of the future if she has not survived. One tradition has gone beyond hope of replacement. Amherst has her "Gabrina," Wellesley has had "Harriet." Just to the right of the palms of the centre stood an heroic marble figure of Harriet Martineau, seated in a large chair. In the dim days of the early eighties it was considered a triumph of recklessness for the undergraduate to successfully elude the notice of Charles, the night watchman, and Miss Tuttle, the Argus-eyed guardian of the proprieties, to climb up into Harriet's lap and embrace that unresponsive worthy. Later classes, limited in the matter of permitting hazing, found "Harriet" an ingenious means of teaching freshmen to know their proper place. "Putting the freshmen through Harriet" occurred on Hallowe'en. Each little wearer of the green was shoved college this was the most beautiful the chair and the pedestal, assisted none too gently by attendant sophomores, while upper-class girls and faculty enjoyed the fun. Thin girls found the course in "Harriet" easy; plump ones found marble as unyielding as spherical trigonometry or freshman Latin.

Another place to which every Wellesley girl led her friends with evident pride was the Browning-room. Of all the reception rooms of the college this was the most beautiful. Mr. Durant consciously planned to make the setting of Wellesley life artistic. To this end he planted the grounds with the care of a landscape gardener. To this end he bought Wedgewood china for the dining room. Even if a piece or two of the teakwood furniture, the gift of the Mikado to Wellesley is saved from the wreckage, there never again can be duplicated the ensemble—the frieze in oils of the wild flowers of the neighborhood, the stained-glass windows illustrating Mrs. Browning's poem, "The Romance of the Swan's Nest," the statue of "The Reading Girl," the autograph letters of the Brownings, the carved cabinets and chairs and tables. The Browning-room must be, perforce, a thing of the past.

Even the old dining room, perhaps the least attractive feature of College Hall, has a place in the picture of the past. On its walls hung portraits of former presidents. In its great alcoved windows famous men and women have dined. There were kept the last of the blue and white Wedgewood platters and pitchers, whose hard usage shattered one of Mr. Durant's dreams of the ideal college girl. "I can even think pleasantly of the pantry near by, where once I washed the breakfast silver," sighed one to whom College Hall had been home for three years in the days of domestic service.

If we leave the centre and turn to the left, memory once more stirs, and we refuse to believe that never again shall we step inside the old library. Fortunately for the college its large collection of books has been domiciled for two years in the new building near the Rhododendron Hollow. But to the alumnae the library has always been the old room, sombre in oak, with its recesses and quiet balcony nooks, its collections of hours spent over English and history reference, its delights of Miss Hodgkins, Miss Mer[illegible], Miss Stratton, Miss Jewett, of inspired instructors past and present, whose guidance led to the well-filled shelves. There are those who recall as well the dominating personality of Professor Horsford of Harvard, whose generosity endowed the library and whose frequent visits made him a part of Wellesley life.

Across the way was the faculty parlor. Will there ever be a lovelier place? There on Sunday afternoons, in sunshine filtered through oak leaves, students and teachers met for after-dinner coffee or a cup of tea. There the head of College Hall dispensed a charming hospitality.

Past Diana and her stag—such a convenient resting-place for books and wraps, were you a village girl—upstairs to the chapel mounts the quickened memory of the bereft alumna. Yes, Wellesley has a new and much more beautiful chapel. But this is the Chapel. Through its door she hurried in the morning, fearful lest the monitor would close it upon her. There she heard the lecture or concert of holiday Monday evenings. There she listened to the best of Boston's musical talent. When, last year, in Devonshire, one Wellesley girl saw on the hotel register the name of Timothee Adamowski, once first violin of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the distinguished-looking gentleman who bore it was to her merely a symbol of those marvelous evenings in the old chapel.

Crowded, inconvenient, even unbeautiful, the old chapel means Flower Sunday and Phillips Brooks; it stands for Glee Club concerts and stirring debates; it spells hushed Sunday evenings, when, lights dimmed within and shadows lengthening without, subdued voices sang favorite hymns, or young hearts thrilled response to the voice of the organ. It was there that Commencement was held, and the senior rose to receive her degree from the hands of Miss Freeman or Miss Shafer or Mrs. Irvine with eyes so misty that it was hard to see the "Non ministrari sed ministrare," that talismanic text, blazoned on the wall, where each daughter of Wellesley could read it daily.

Not a single floor fails to contribute its quota to the traditions of the past.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The annual meeting of the Oliphant Club was held Friday with the president, Mrs. Kate Bailey, at her home on the West Main road. A report of the secretary, Mrs. Philip Wilbor, stated that but one meeting had been omitted throughout the year; a brief summary of the past twelve months was also given. The report of the treasurer, Miss Lizzie A. Chase, showed an unusually good balance. The call for extra funds for the Sarah Platt Decker Memorial for the use of the General Federation, met with a prompt response. Several items of importance were presented to the club for its endorsement, from the State Federation, by its director, Mrs. John R. Coggeshall, in her annual report.

It being customary to elect two officers one year and three the next, each for a period of two years, the following changes were made: Secretary Mrs. John R. Coggeshall; assistant secretary, Miss Charlotte A. Chase; treasurer, Miss Lizzie A. Chase; director, Mrs. Philip Wilbor. The president, Mrs. Kate Bailey, and the vice president, Mrs. Josephine Sweet, remain in office for another year.

The program committee for 1914-1916 was appointed by the president as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Harold R. Chase; Mrs. Edward Thurston, Miss Charlotte A. Chase, Mrs. Sadie White, Mrs. William Hamilton. The new programs are to be ready at the close of the club year, June 19.

At the conclusion of the business the following program was presented by the president: Poetical quotations from each member, current events, from the Christian Herald.

Miss Sadie E. Peckham will act as hostess at the next meeting, presenting the last in the series of topics on "Music," the monthly theme, "The Four Great Masters."

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Peckham entertained the weekly cottage service of the Epworth League at their home off Wapping road Friday evening. Miss Elizabeth A. Peckham acted as leader; topic, "Personal Evangelism Under Difficulties."

Mr. George Wyatt of Wyatt road, who underwent a successful operation at his home Thursday for a glandular trouble of the neck, is doing as well as could be expected.

The April meeting of Newport County Pomona Grange with Aquidneck Grange, will inaugurate the afternoon and evening sessions, which are to be tried for the remainder of the year at every other meeting. The sessions will open at 3, supper in the vicinity of 6, and the evening meeting, which will include the lecturers' hours, at 7. The lecturer, Mrs. Arthur A. Sherman of Portsmouth, is planning a musicale. The May meeting at Jamestown will be held at the usual hour.

The new road scraper has had an excellent trial on Forest avenue and is doing good work with the ruts. It is considered rather harder on the horses than the road machine, as there is no let-up to the hard, steady pulling. Its construction seems quite simple—two long parallel scrapers which level half the road at a time.

Several members of Aquidneck Grange are in attendance today at the Old Colony Massachusetts Pomona Grange at Somerset.

THE "FLYING DUTCHMAN'S" REVIEW.

[Frederick H. Martens, in Lippincott's.]

Where the mid-Atlantic currents in their foam-fleck'd surges sweep,
Ho, all ye craft that sleep beneath the blue!
The shades of all the ships that ever sank beneath the deep
Meet once a year at midnight for review;
The war-triremes of Athens, the galleys oared of Rome,
The sea-wolves of the Norseman and the rovers of the Dane,
Their ghosts from deeps unsounded, where their hulks lie century-grounded,
To keep the tryst of ages rise again.

And in endless ranks extended, mann'd by wraiths of wave-worn dead,
Ho, all ye craft that sleep beneath the blue!
They hoist their phantom anchors, and their phantom sails they spread
To catch the spindrift's stinging breath anew;
The privateers and pirates, the Salley brigantines,
The men-of-war of England and the galleons of Spain,
By grape and round-shot shattered, with their banners torn and tattered,
Once more aligned they ride the heaving main;

Till a phosphorescent ocean round the navies of the dead,
Ho, all ye craft that keep the rendezvous!
In milky fire upboiling shows 'neath blood-red sails outspread,
The "Flying Dutchman," admiral of the blue;
And every ghostly vessel dips its flag to him once more,
As silent, she drives past him in review,
Into oblivion sailing with her time-gnawed ensigns trailing,
In deeps unplumb'd to bide the call anew!

IMPRACTICABLE PACIFICS.

All right-minded persons will do what they can to encourage the practice of settling international disputes without war, and most of them will do all they can to prevent international disputes and to restrain their own countries from undertaking policies likely to lead them into difficulties with others. It is impossible to go much beyond this. The individual can go unarmed because there is a government over him and his neighbors, which maintains a force adequate to protect each one against the others. There is no government over governments. Each nation must take care of its own interests, and while some of them are armed all must be, or those who disarm would put themselves at the mercy of those who did not, as the frontiersman who has no gun puts himself at the mercy of those who have.

Many of the advocates of universal peace are entirely impracticable. It is a common thing for them to suppose that force is used only between nations while it is constantly used between individuals, only it is not their force, but that of a government superior to them and able and willing to crush them if they resist. There is a close analogy between the peace officer and the war officer. The soldier is not sent forth to kill some one, but to take possession of a certain place or piece of property, and to use force only if necessary to hold it. A constable would do the same.

Some of the proposals of the universal peace advocates are hopelessly and exasperatingly impracticable. One of the worst in this respect is that of Rev. Mr. Wachsmuth of Sweden, who would recruit a "white army" which should prevent war by coming between the battle armies. Does any one quite believe that asylum supposes a Russian army would be prevented from attacking a German Army because Rev. Mr. Wachsmuth and his "white army" had moved into the territory between the two?

The cause of universal peace is promoted by those who seek to increase the scope of arbitration and to create public opinion adverse to war, but it is not promoted by cranks, dreamers and sentimentalists.

"OUR CUSTOMERS YOUR PATIENTS."

Nothing in the line of temperance literature which has turned up for years is quite so entertaining as the correspondence between an association or company of Kentucky distillers and the managers of a Keeley Institute, for the sake of the addresses of habitual users of liquors. For obvious business reasons a Keeley Institute would wish to be in correspondence with as many users of alcohol as possible, some of these would be using it to an excess, and some of the excessive drinkers would be open to a suggestion of treatment. The distillers had of course acquired the addresses of many men who are steady buyers of strong waters, and in offering to sell 50,000 addresses, or portions of the list, to the managers of a cure the representative of the distillers is said to have written the striking words: "Our customers are your prospective patients."

That of course is what a temperance orator would have been likely to say, but there is a touch of ghastly pleasantry in the use of such language by the purveyors of alcohol. One would hardly have expected them to take in quickly the connection between their own business and that of the cures, and to recognize the value to the latter of the addresses of the persons out of whom the distiller is making his money. Most of the 50,000 are probably residents in prohibition states and counties. Where there are saloons or liquor stores a man is not likely to deal directly with the distiller, but a man who must send away for his wet goods would be likely to send directly to the distillery.

This incident probably sheds a good deal of light on the vexed question why prohibition does not prohibit thoroughly. Of course there are laws about the shipment of liquors into "dry" territory, but smuggling must be easy enough; it is not customary to open and search boxes and barrels unless there is some circumstance to awaken suspicion. "Our customers are your prospective patients" is as good a phrase to shout in the war on liquor as anything which could have been invented.

A FAR-SEEING PROGRAM.

One of the most prominent characteristics of Canada is forethought. This trait is conspicuous in many ways, but they all show that the people and the government have an eye constantly toward the future and are forecasting the needs of the country far ahead. The administration is always planning far in advance of present requirements and the country is progressing with rapid strides. The Canadians see the advantages of trans-continental railroad lines through sparsely settled areas and build great systems one after another. They dream of big ship canals and make surveys for them before fixing a date for construction. They learn by careful study the kind of immigrants they need and lay down a efinite policy concerning immigration to which they cling tenaciously. They attack the problem of the cultivation of the agricultural districts with full knowledge of the possibilities of the country along that line. The value of industrial training and technical education is not overlooked, although it is essentially an agricultural nation. They, in fact, seek to do things efficiently, which means thorough preparation as well as thorough execution.

The movement for industrial education and technical training is conducted on such a plan of anticipation and forethought and the preparation for it is exhaustive. A commission has been studying the subject at home and abroad, and as a result has presented a program for development along this line which is remarkably comprehensive. It will be no hap-hazard and hasty plan, but one carefully thought out according to the needs of the country and it will be carried out in a systematic manner. To execute it will require the expenditure of $8,000,000 annually, to be divided among the provinces on the basis of population.

One feature of this scheme is that from the funds thus raised scholarships shall be provided in order that all social groups shall have equal opportunity; also experts whose counsel will be available to provincial and local authorities, central institutions to supplement the work carried on by the provincial and local development committees, and the promotion of industrial and housekeeping research. Emphasis is laid on the importance of adopting a plan which will preserve provincial control, encourage local initiative and develop community responsibility. The breadth of the program is shown not only in its general application in elementary and specialization in secondary schools, but in the kinds of industry included and the variety of methods of application proposed. Not only are workers in factories considered, but the commission says: "The interests of the rural population should be conserved and promoted as far as possible and the needs of girls and woman for organized instruction and training in the elements of the sciences and arts which underlie successful housekeeping and home making under modern industrial conditions, should be recognized and provided for."

Even the fishermen are not forgotten, schools for instruction in curing and packing and other features of that industry being recommended. The scheme has thought also for the higher mental powers, it being suggested "that workers in factories whose main task is to tend or operate machines should receive instruction and training which would develop all-round skill and power and increase their interests beyond the routine of automatic operations." Nor is the higher social life of the rural communities neglected. Continuation schools, apprentices' classes in workshops, institutes, colleges and correspondence study courses adapted to urban and rural conditions, are proposed and the whole field is covered in this carefully planned and thoroughly studied program. It takes a long look into the future in the characteristic Canadian fashion, and cannot fail to be productive of much needed results.

The members of the House of Representatives could not stand a "record vote" on the old "mileage grab" of 20 cents a mile each way which has been in vogue for many years, and by a vote of 337 to 95 the members agreed to accept actual traveling expenses, for themselves and families, to and from Washington at the beginning and end of the sessions. When the matter was considered in the committee of the whole, where individual votes were not recorded, the House decided, three to one, in favor of 20 cents a mile. The members evidently did not relish having the world know how they voted.

Secretary Bryan has withdrawn the treaty with Denmark which contained a compulsory arbitration clause, and substituted one which relates only to the settlement of issues by investigators. The Danish Parliament had approved the former, but there was objection in the United States Senate committee to combining in one treaty the two subjects, investigation and arbitration. The new document is the first part of the original, and the other portion will be presented later in a supplementary treaty.

There is now a probability that the General Assembly may put off the time of adjournment one week. That is better than trying to rush a whole session's legislative business through in a few days, even if the members do work without pay. In recent years the legislators have done some of their best work after the time for receiving their salaries had expired. The adjournment will probably not come until Friday, May 1.

Providence is asking Congress to appropriate $20,000 to fit up the second story of the state pier for immigration purposes and provide for the employment of sufficient help to care for the new-comers. The city persuaded the state to build the pier, and now asks Congress to give further help. Providence, which receives practically all the benefit from the state pier, might do something for herself.

Huerta is likely to play the bluff game once too often. It is now a case of put up or shut up—put up the salute or shut up shop as titular ruler of Mexico.

Transfer Tax Appraisers Report Reveals Extent of the D. O. Mills Estate.

Darius Ogden Mills, California pioneer banker and philanthropist, left a net estate of $35,019,803.55, according to the final figures of Percival E. Nagle, transfer tax appraiser. The exhaustive report, which will be filed in a few days with the deputy state controller in New York, discloses for the first time the vast holdings of Mr. Mills.

Ogden Mills, son, and Mrs. Elizabeth Mills Reid, daughter of Mr. Mills and widow of Whitelaw Reid, each receive $17,509,901.78. Their shares represent the residue.

The appraisal shows that the gross personal estate is worth $31,947,391.67. The gross realty is appraised at $4,280,000, making the total gross estate $36,227,391.67. The total deductions amount to $807,588.12. These include $724,927.84 in commissions, to the son and daughter as executors.

Debts amount to $29,602.65; administration expenses, $50,000; funeral expenses, $3,057.63.

By the terms of the will the following cash bequests were made: $100,000 each to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History and the Home for Incurables in the City of New York; $50,000 to the New York Botanical Gardens; $25,000 each to the American Geographical Society and the American National Red Cross.

The realty of Mr. Mills included No. 15 Pinard street, and No. 51 Exchange place, known as the Mills building, the two being valued at $1,225,000. The only other realty was the garage at 109 West Fifty-second street, valued at $55,000.

For several years before the death of Mr. Mills he made it a custom to give $1,000,000 to each of his children for Christmas presents. The appraisal of the estate was held up because the state controller wished to tax the last $2,000,000 presented to Ogden Mills and Mrs. Reid in the week before Mr. Mills died. It was thought that the gift might have been made in anticipation of death and therefore subject to taxation under the state law. The appraiser eventually exempted this on the ground that it was a custom with Mr. Mills and was not made in an effort to avoid taxation.

PORTION OF STATE DEBTS.

Connecticut and Rhode Island Groaning With Massachusetts.

(New Haven Journal-Courier.)

We have with us now an appendix to our body politic and it has become quite a formidable burden to carry along. We refer to our state debt. Now it isn't an amazing long time ago when the phrase was quite common in the newspapers and among the campaign orators: "A national debt is a national blessing." We had a tremendous national debt at the close of our civil war and it hung on for years, but such was the energy, the enterprise, the push and pluck of our people, such were the tremendous resources of the nation that the vast debt dwindled and lessened, until at one time it could easily have been paid off. But this was not to be, for campaigns for improving the country in every imaginable way came on and improvements of rivers and harbors and other waterways and the building of superb postoffice buildings, etc., appeared and kept on appearing and absorbing the surplus public money.

Our state had a very moderate debt not long since and six years ago it was not only free from debt, but had a surplus of $265,000. Such is not the case today. By reports of the treasurer of our state, the net state debt stands at nearly $9,000,000, which is an increase over the year previous of $1,[illegible]506.

But the increased indebtedness cannot be justly charged to wastefulness, or prodigality or indiscrimination in expenditures. Our state is a growing state and expenditures not thought necessary a score of years ago have been required. A large share of the expenditures have been devoted to the necessities for the state's welfare. But it is equally certain that there has been a large falling off in the receipts and a great increase in appropriations. Therefore the issue of additional bonds to meet the increased indebtedness. As the Norwich Bulletin sanely remarks. "Each bond issue not only increases the debt and yearly interest account, but it gives greater promise of the regularity of a state tax. The need of economy has never been more strongly felt. It has justified whatever action was taken in that direction at the last session of the legislature and it indicates that it must be continued."

The same problem faces Rhode Island and, as the treasurer of that state points out, "it is evident that the present financial condition cannot be continued indefinitely. There must be an increase in current receipts or a decrease in appropriations if the state is to administer its affairs to the convenience and satisfaction of the public and maintain its credit."

Rhode Island's net debt is $5,041,570, only about $1,750,000 less than that of our state. Governor Baldwin set his foot down to curb state expenditures during the last general assembly and the public can well thank him that our state debt is not greater than it is. There are no signs yet that a big state debt is a blessing.

PORTSMOUTH.

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Association—Funeral of Mrs. Gardner.

By invitation of Mrs. Frederick Chase the annual meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Association was held at her home Friday afternoon and evening. The afternoon was devoted to business, after which supper furnished by the hostess was served. Several men members of the parish joined the company at supper time, 34 being present in all. The table decorations were daffodils.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Hattie G. Anthony, and the minutes of the last meeting read by the secretary, Miss Abbie S. Anthony. The yearly report followed: Twenty five meetings have been held during the year, three with supper at the guild house and eight at the homes of members. The missionary work done during Lent was given to St. Elizabeth's Home, Providence, and consisted of bedding and household furnishings. A letter of acknowledgment and thanks was read.

The treasurer's report, by Miss Fannie Hicks, was encouraging, a balance being left in the treasury. The Society earned from various sources during the year quite a sum, which has been expended for the needs of the church. The endowment fund has also been increased by regular contributors. The election of officers resulted in almost every case in a re-election, as follows: President, Miss Hattie G. Anthony; vice president, Mrs. William B. Anthony; secretary, Miss Abbie S. Anthony; treasurer, Miss Fannie Hicks; collector, Miss Grace Hicks; work committee, Mrs. Benjamin C. Sherman, Miss Grace Hicks, the third to be named later; fancy work committee, Mrs. John M. Eldredge, Mrs. George I. Anthony, Mrs. Fred Chase.

The date for the annual lawn party was fixed as July 15.

The question of changing the name of the Society, which was given as "The Ladies' Association" more than 50 years ago, was discussed. All being in favor of a change, a committee to propose a new name was appointed—Mrs. Benjamin S. Anthony, Miss Hattie G. Anthony, Miss Grace Hicks and Mrs. John L. Borden.

The committee on entertainments was voted to consist of six members, three from the Association—Mrs. Fred Chase, Mrs. Benjamin S. Anthony and Mrs. David B. Anthony—and three from the guild, Mrs. Berton W. Storrs, Mrs. Clara Manchester and Mrs. William F. Gannell. It is expected that they will give a musicale with other features early in May.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, widow of Solomon Gardner and mother of Representative John T. Gardner, took place from her late home on the East Main road Thursday. Rev. John Wadsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church conducted the service, reading Scripture, offering prayer and preaching from II. Corinthians V: 1. There was a large attendance and many beautiful floral offerings. The bearers were Messrs. George R. Hicks, Perry G. Randall, John L. Borden and Christopher Manchester. Interment was in the family lot in St. Mary's Churchyard, beside her husband, who died a few years ago.

Dr. Christopher D. Albro and wife, who have been spending two months with relatives here, have gone to Media, Pa., to make their future home with their son, Mr. Bertram Allen Albro, teacher of Greek in that town.

Mrs. William B. Anthony has returned from a visit of 10 days, spent with her sister in New York.

The Bridge Whist Club, which was to have held its first meeting since Lent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Chase, was omitted on account of sickness.

Mr. Samuel A. Carter, who has been ill for some time, is worse.

The chicken thieves in this town have not all been caught as three different places have had chickens stolen from them within a week, and the coops taken in which they were kept.

Five special cars from Fall River brought 360 members of the Butchers and Grocers' Association to the Stone Bridge Hotel Thursday evening for a chicken supper. The hall was decorated with bunting and flags and the table with palms and pinks.

Mrs. Frank Wheeler and the children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Chase, who have been sick with a form of grip, are better.

Town Tax and Poll Tax for 1914.

Assessors' Notice.

JAMESTOWN, R. I.,
April 18th, A. D. 1914.

The undersigned, Assessors of Taxes, in and for the Town of Jamestown, in the State of Rhode Island, etc., duly elected thereto and sworn, hereby give notice that on Monday, May 11, 1914,

AT 10 O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON They will assess the Town Tax ordered to be levied and assessed on the ratable property of said Town, at the annual Financial Town Meeting of the qualified electors thereof, duly notified and legally held therein, on the 4th day of April, A. D. 1914, on the persons, corporations, estates and property liable therefor, and taxable under the laws of said State, and at the same time will assess the Poll Tax for the current year, A. D. 1914, as provided in Chapter 59, of the General Laws of said State.

The undersigned further hereby give notice that they will meet and be in session at the Town Clerk's Office, in said Jamestown, on

MONDAY, MAY 11th, 1914,
On TUESDAY, MAY 12, 1914, and on WEDNESDAY, May 13th, 1914,

From 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 P. M., for the purpose of receiving a true and exact account of all the ratable property of every person, corporation and estate liable to taxation in said town under the laws of said State and every such person, corporation and estate liable to taxation in said Jamestown, aforesaid, is hereby notified and required to bring in to said Assessors, within the time or times, and at the place of meeting and session of said Assessors, as hereinbefore mentioned and designated, a true and exact account of all his or its ratable estate, describing and specifying the value of every parcel of his or its real and personal estate, and make oath to the truth of said account before some one of the undersigned Assessors as aforesaid.

Whoever neglects or refuses to bring in such account, if overtaxed, shall have no remedy therefore, as provided by law. Every male person above the age of twenty years, who pays no property tax, or property tax less than one dollar, and who, if registered, would be qualified to vote, is liable to the assessment of a poll tax of one dollar, or so much thereof as with the other taxes assessed against said person shall amount to one dollar.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, April 18.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight; Sunday, unsettled, generally fair; increasing south to southwest winds.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Forecast for southern New England—Fair tonight, warmer in interior; Sunday, increasing cloudiness; moderate fresh south winds.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Forecast for northern New England—Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably rain, except generally fair in Maine; warmer tonight in New Hampshire and Vermont; moderate south winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Clear weather prevailed this morning in eastern districts. The pressure is above the normal along the Atlantic slope. It is unsettled in the states between Mississippi valley and Rocky mountains, and rain has fallen at scattered stations from Manitoba southward through the Dakotas and the Plains states to the Texas coast. The weather is generally fair in the far Southwest and on the Pacific slope.

The temperature is near the normal in the eastern states and above normal in the central portions of the country, because of the southerly winds in advance of the depression. It is above freezing at all stations in the country except a few points in northern Vermont and the Rocky Mountain plateau. The lowest reported during the night was 28 degrees at Northfield, Vt. In New York city at 8 a. m. it was 56, Boston 53, Washington 52, New Orleans 70, St. Louis 64, Chicago 68, Kansas City 60, San Francisco 56, Portland, Oregon, 50.

Morning reports from Atlantic and European stations—London, 48, clear; Paris, 48, clear; Cuxhaven, 48, clear; Havana, 76, clear; Bermuda, 60, cloudy.

IMPRACTICABLE PACIFICS.

All right-minded persons will do what they can to encourage the practice of settling international disputes without war, and most of them will do all they can to prevent international disputes and to restrain their own countries from undertaking policies likely to lead them into difficulties with others. It is impossible to go much beyond this. The individual can go unarmed because there is a government over him and his neighbors, which maintains a force adequate to protect each one against the others. There is no government over governments. Each nation must take care of its own interests, and while some of them are armed all must be, or those who disarm would put themselves at the mercy of those who did not, as the frontiersman who has no gun puts himself at the mercy of those who have.

Many of the advocates of universal peace are entirely impracticable. It is a common thing for them to suppose that force is used only between nations, while it is constantly used between individuals, only it is not their force, but that of a government superior to them and able and willing to crush them if they resist. There is a close analogy between the peace officer and the war officer. The soldier is not sent forth to kill some one, but to take possession of a certain place or piece of property, and to use force only if necessary to hold it. A constable would do the same.

Some of the proposals of the universal peace advocates are hopelessly and exasperatingly impracticable. One of the worst in this respect is that of Rev. Mr. Wickham of Sweden, who would recruit a "white army" which should prevent war by coming between the hostile armies. Does any one outside of an asylum suppose a Russian army would be prevented from attacking a German army because Rev. Mr. Wickham and his "white army" had moved into the territory between the two?

The cause of universal peace is promoted by those who seek to increase the scope of arbitration and to create public opinion adverse to war, but it is not promoted by cranks, dreamers and sentimentalists.

"OUR CUSTOMERS YOUR PATIENTS."

Nothing in the line of temperance literature which has turned up for years is quite so entertaining as the correspondence between an association or company of Kentucky distillers and the managers of a Keeley Institute, for the cure of the addresses of habitual users of liquors. For obvious business reasons a Keeley Institute would wish to be in correspondence with as many users of alcohol as possible. Some of these would be using it to an excess, and some of the excessive drinkers would be open to a suggestion of treatment. The distillers had of course acquired the addresses of many men who are steady buyers of strong waters, and in offering to sell 50,000 addresses, or portions of the list, to the managers of a cure the representative of the distillers is said to have written the striking words: "Our customers are your prospective patients."

That of course is what a temperance orator would have been likely to say, but there is a touch of ghastly pleasantry in the use of such language by the purveyors of alcohol. One would hardly have expected them to take in quickly the connection between their own business and that of the cures, and to recognize the value to the latter of the addresses of the persons out of whom the distiller is making his money. Most of the 50,000 are probably residents in prohibition states and counties. Where there are saloons or liquor stores a man is not likely to deal directly with the distiller, but a man who must send away for his wet goods would be likely to send directly to the distillery.

This incident probably sheds a good deal of light on the vexed question why prohibition does not prohibit thoroughly. Of course there are laws about the shipment of liquors into "dry" territory, but smuggling must be easy enough; it is not customary to open and search boxes and barrels unless there is some circumstance to awaken suspicion. "Our customers are your prospective patients" is as good a phrase to shout in the war on liquor as anything which could have been invented.

A FAR-SEEING PROGRAM.

One of the most prominent characteristics of Canada is forethought. This trait is conspicuous in many ways, but they all show that the people and the government have an eye constantly toward the future and are forecasting the needs of the country far ahead. The administration is always planning far in advance of present requirements and the country is progressing with rapid strides. The Canadians see the advantages of trans-continental railroad lines through sparsely settled areas and build great systems one after another. They dream of big ship canals and make surveys for them before fixing a date for construction. They learn by careful study the kind of immigrants they need and lay down a efinite policy concerning immigration to which they cling tenaciously. They attack the problem of the cultivation of the agricultural districts with full knowledge of the possibilities of the country along that line. The value of industrial training and technical education is not overlooked, although it is essentially an agricultural nation. They, in fact, seek to do things efficiently, which means thorough preparation as well as thorough execution.

The movement for industrial education and technical training is conducted on such a plan of anticipation and forethought and the preparation for it is exhaustive. A commission has been studying the subject at home and abroad, and as a result has presented a program for development along this line which is remarkably comprehensive. It will be no hap-hazard and hasty plan, but one carefully thought out according to the needs of the country and it will be carried out in a systematic manner. To execute it will require the expenditure of $3,000,000 annually, to be divided among the provinces on the basis of population.

One feature of this scheme is that from the funds thus raised scholarships shall be provided in order that all social groups shall have equal opportunity; also experts whose counsel will be available to provincial and local authorities, central institutions to supplement the work carried on by the provincial and local development committees, and the promotion of industrial and housekeeping research. Emphasis is laid on the importance of adopting a plan which will preserve provincial control, encourage local initiative and develop community responsibility. The breadth of the program is shown not only in its general application in elementary and specialization in secondary schools, but in the kinds of industry included and the variety of methods of application proposed. Not only are workers in factories considered, but the commission says: "The interests of the rural population should be conserved and promoted as far as possible and the needs of girls and woman for organized instruction and training in the elements of the sciences and arts which underlie successful housekeeping and home making under modern industrial conditions, should be recognized and provided for."

Even the fishermen are not forgotten, schools for instruction in curing and packing and other features of that industry being recommended. The scheme has thought also for the higher mental powers, it being suggested "that workers in factories whose main task is to tend or operate machines should receive instruction and training which would develop all round skill and power and increase their interests beyond the routine of automatic operations." Nor is the higher social life of the rural communities neglected. Continuation schools, apprentices' classes in workshops, institutes, colleges and correspondence study courses adapted to urban and rural conditions, are proposed and the whole field is covered in this carefully planned and thoroughly studied program. It takes a long look into the future in the characteristic Canadian fashion, and cannot fail to be productive of much needed results.

The members of the House of Representatives could not stand a "record vote" on the old "mileage grab" of 20 cents a mile each way which has been in vogue for many years, and by a vote of 227 to 95 the members agreed to accept actual traveling expenses, for themselves and families, to and from Washington at the beginning and end of the sessions. When the matter was considered in the committee of the whole, where individual votes were not recorded, the House decided, three to one, in favor of 20 cents a mile. The members evidently did not relish having the world know how they voted.

Secretary Bryan has withdrawn the treaty with Denmark which contained a compulsory arbitration clause, and substituted one which relates only to the settlement of issues by investigators. The Danish Parliament had approved the former, but there was objection in the United States Senate committee to combining in one treaty the two subjects, investigation and arbitration. The new document is the first part of the original, and the other portion will be presented later in a supplementary treaty.

There is now a probability that the General Assembly may put off its time of adjournment one week. That is better than trying to rush a whole session's legislative business through in a few days, even if the members do work without pay. In recent years the legislators have done some of their best work after the time for receiving their salaries had expired. The adjournment will probably not come until Friday, May 1.

Providence is asking Congress to appropriate $20,000 to fit up the second story of the state pier for immigration purposes and provide for the employment of sufficient help to care for the new-comers. The city persuaded the state to build the pier, and now asks Congress to give further help. Providence, which receives practically all the benefit from the state pier, might do something for herself.

Huerta is likely to play the bluff game once too often. It is now a case of put up or shut up—put up the salute or shut up shop as titular ruler of Mexico.

Transfer Tax Appraisers Report Reveals Extent of the D. O. Mills Estate.

Darius Ogden Mills, California pioneer banker and philanthropist, left a net estate of $35,019,803.55, according to the final figures of Percival E. Nagle, transfer tax appraiser. The exhaustive report, which will be filed in a few days with the deputy state controller in New York, discloses for the first time the vast holdings of Mr. Mills.

Ogden Mills, son, and Mrs. Elizabeth Mills Reid, daughter of Mr. Mills and widow of Whitelaw Reid, each receive $17,509,901.78. Their shares represent the residue.

The appraisal shows that the gross personal estate is worth $31,947,391.67. The gross realty is appraised at $4,290,000, making the total gross estate $36,227,391.67. The total deductions amount to $397,588.12. These include $724,927.84 in commissions, to the son and daughter as executors.

Debts amount to $29,802.65; administration expenses, $50,000; funeral expenses, $2,057.63.

By the terms of the will the following cash bequests were made: $100,000 each to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History and the Home for Incurables in the City of New York; $50,000 to the New York Botanical Gardens; $25,000 each to the American Geographical Society and the American National Red Cross.

The realty of Mr. Mills included No. 15 Broad street, and No. 51 Exchange place, known as the Mills building, the two being valued at $1,225,000. The only other realty was the garage at 109 West Fifty-second street, valued at $55,000.

For several years before the death of Mr. Mills he made it a custom to give $1,000,000 to each of his children for Christmas presents. The appraisal of the estate was held up because the state controller wished to tax the last $2,000,000 presented to Ogden Mills and Mrs. Reid in the week before Mr. Mills died. It was thought that the gift might have been made in anticipation of death and therefore subject to taxation under the state law. The appraiser eventually exempted this on the ground that it was a custom with Mr. Mills and was not made in an effort to avoid taxation.

QUEEN OF STATE DEBTS.

Connecticut and Rhode Island Groaning With Massachusetts.

(New Haven Journal-Courier.)

We have with us now an appendix to our body politic and it has become quite a formidable burden to carry along. We refer to our state debt. Now it isn't an amazing long time ago when the phrase was quite common in the newspapers and among the campaign orators: "A national debt is a national blessing." We had a tremendous national debt at the close of our civil war and it hung on for years but such was the energy, the enterprise, the push and pluck of our people, such were the tremendous resources of the nation that the vast debt dwindled and lessened, until at one time it could easily have been paid in full. But this was not to be, for extravagant ways in improving the country in every imaginable way canals and improvements of rivers and harbors and other waterways and the building of superb postoffice buildings, etc., appeared and kept on appearing and absorbing the surplus public money.

Our state had a very moderate debt not long since and six years ago it was not only free from debt, but had a surplus of $265,000. Such is not the case today. By reports of the treasurer of our state, the net state debt stands at nearly $2,000,000, which is an increase over the year previous of $[illegible].

Part of the increased indebtedness cannot be justly charged to wastefulness, or prodigality or indiscrimination in expenditures. Our state is a growing state and expenditures not thought necessary a score of years ago have been required. A large share of the expenditures have been devoted to the necessities for the state's welfare. But it is equally certain as there has been a large falling off in the receipts and a great increase in appropriations. Therefore the issue of additional bonds to meet the increased indebtedness. As the Norwich Bulletin sanely remarks, 'Each bond issue not only increases the debt and yearly interest account, but it gives greater promise of the regularity of a state tax. The need of economy has never been more strongly felt. It has justified whatever action was taken in that direction at the last session of the legislature and it indicates that it must be continued."

The same problem faces Rhode Island and, as the treasurer of that state points out, "it is evident that the present financial condition cannot be continued indefinitely. There must be an increase in current receipts or a decrease in appropriations if the state is to administer its affairs to the convenience and satisfaction of the public and maintain its credit."

Rhode Island's net debt is $5,041,570, only about $1,750,000 less than that of our state. Governor Baldwin set his foot down to curb state expenditures during the last general assembly and the public can well thank him that our state debt is not greater than it is. There are no signs yet that a big state debt is a blessing.

PORTSMOUTH.

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Association—Funeral of Mrs. Gardner.

By invitation of Mrs. Frederick Chase the annual meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Association was held at her home Friday afternoon and evening. The afternoon was devoted to business, after which supper furnished by the hostess was served. Several men members of the parish joined the company at supper time, 34 being present in all. The table decorations were daffodils.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Hattie G. Anthony, and the minutes of the last meeting read by the secretary, Miss Abbie S. Anthony. The yearly report followed: Twenty five meetings have been held during the year, three with supper at the guild house and eight at the homes of members. The missionary work done during Lent was given to St. Elizabeth's Home, Providence, and consisted of bedding and household furnishings. A letter of acknowledgment and thanks was read.

The treasurer's report, by Miss Fannie Hicks, was encouraging, a balance being left in the treasury. The Society earned from various sources during the year quite a sum, which has been expended for the needs of the church. The endowment fund has also been increased by regular contributors. The election of officers resulted in almost every case in a re-election, as follows: President, Miss Hattie G. Anthony; vice president, Mrs. William B. Anthony; secretary, Miss Abbie S. Anthony; treasurer, Miss Fannie Hicks; collector, Miss Grace Hicks; work committee, Mrs. Benjamin C. Sherman, Miss Grace Hicks, the third to be named later; fancy work committee, Mrs. John M. Eldredge Mrs. George I. Anthony, Mrs. Fred Chase.

The date for the annual lawn party was fixed as July 15.

The question of changing the name of the Society, which was given as "The Ladies' Association" more than 50 years ago, was discussed. All being in favor of a change, a committee to propose a new name was appointed —Mrs. Benjamin S. Anthony, Miss Hattie G. Anthony, Miss Grace Hicks and Mrs. John L. Borden.

The committee on entertainments was voted to consist of six members, three from the Association—Mrs. Fred Chase, Mrs. Benjamin S. Anthony and Mrs. David B. Anthony—and three from the guild, Mrs. Berton W. Storrs, Mrs. Clara Manchester and Mrs. William F. Grinnell. It is expected that they will give a musicale with other features early in May.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, widow of Solomon Gardner and mother of Representative John T. Gardner, took place from her late home on the East Main road Thursday. Rev. John Wadsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church conducted the service, reading Scripture, offering prayer and preaching from II. Corinthians V: 1. There was a large attendance and many beautiful floral offerings. The bearers were Messrs. George R. Hicks, Perry G. Randall, John L. Borden and Christopher Manchester. Interment was in the family lot in St. Mary's Churchyard, beside her husband, who died a few years ago.

Dr. Christopher D. Albro and wife, who have been spending two months with relatives here, have gone to Media, Pa., to make their future home with their son, Mr. Bertram Allen Albro, teacher of Greek in that town.

Mrs. William B. Anthony has returned from a visit of 10 days, spent with her sister in New York.

The Bridge Whist Club, which was to have held its first meeting since Lent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Chase, was omitted on account of sickness.

Mr. Samuel A. Carter, who has been ill for some time, is worse.

The chicken thieves in this town have not all been caught as three different places have had chickens stolen from them within a week, and the coops taken in which they were kept.

Five special cars from Fall River brought 300 members of the Butchers and Grocers' Association to the Stone Bridge Hotel Thursday evening for a chicken supper. The hall was decorated with bunting and flags and the table with palms and pinks.

Mrs. Frank Wheeler and the children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Chase, who have been sick with a form of grip, are better.

Town Tax and Poll Tax for 1914.

Assessors' Notice.

JAMESTOWN, R. I.,
April 13th, A. D. 1914.

The undersigned, Assessors of Taxes, in and for the town of Jamestown, in the State of Rhode Island, etc., duly elected thereto and sworn, hereby give notice that on Monday, May 11, 1914,

AT 10 O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON They will assess the Town Tax ordered to be levied and assessed on the ratable property of said Town, at the annual Financial Town Meeting of the qualified electors thereof, duly notified and legally held therein, on the 4th day of April, A. D. 1914, on the persons, corporations, estates and property liable therefor, and taxable under the laws of said State, and at the same time will assess the Poll Tax for the current year, A. D. 1914, as provided in Chapter 59, of the General Laws of said State.

The undersigned further hereby give notice that they will meet and be in session at the Town Clerk's Office, in said Jamestown, on

MONDAY, May 11th, 1914,
On TUESDAY, MAY 12, 1914, and on WEDNESDAY, May 13th, 1914,

From 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 P. M., for the purpose of receiving a true and exact account of all the ratable property of every person, corporation and estate liable to taxation in said town under the laws of said State and every such person, corporation and estate liable to taxation in said Jamestown, aforesaid, is hereby notified and required to bring in to said Assessors, within the time or times, and at the place of meeting and session of said Assessors, as hereinbefore mentioned and designated, a true and exact account of all his or its ratable estate, describing and specifying the value of every parcel of his or its real and personal estate, and make oath to the truth of said account before some one of the undersigned Assessors as aforesaid.

Whoever neglects or refuses to bring in such account, if overtaxed, shall have no remedy therefore, as provided by law. Every male person above the age of twenty years, who pays no property tax, or property tax less than one dollar, and who, if registered, would be qualified to vote, is liable to the assessment of a poll tax of one dollar, or so much thereof as with the other taxes assessed against said person shall amount to one dollar.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, April 18.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight; Sunday, unsettled, generally fair; increasing south to southwest winds.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Forecast for southern New England—Fair tonight, warmer in interior; Sunday, increasing cloudiness; moderate fresh south winds.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Forecast for northern New England—Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably rain, except generally fair in Maine; warmer tonight in New Hampshire and Vermont; moderate south winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Clear weather prevailed this morning in eastern districts. The pressure is above the normal along the Atlantic slope. It is unsettled in the states between Mississippi valley and Rocky mountains, and rain has fallen at scattered stations from Manitoba southward through the Dakotas and the Plains states to the Texas coast. The weather is generally fair in the far Southwest and on the Pacific slope.

The temperature is near the normal in the eastern states and above normal in the central portions of the country, because of the southerly winds in advance of the depression. It is above freezing at all stations in the country except a few points in northern Vermont and the Rocky Mountain plateau. The lowest reported during the night was 28 degrees at Northfield, Vt. In New York city at 8 a. m. it was 56, Boston 53, Washington 52, New Orleans 70, St. Louis 64, Chicago 68, Kansas City 60, San Francisco 56, Portland, Oregon, 56.

Morning reports from Atlantic and European stations—London, 48, clear; Paris, 48, clear; Cuxhaven, 48, clear; Havana, 76, clear; Bermuda, 60, cloudy.

NEW MAIL FACILITIES MONDAY.

Clerk Stanhope Assigned to Night Duty, to Prepare Matter for Morning.

Four Extra Carriers to be Put On. Ensuring Earlier and Quicker Deliveries.

Postmaster Burlingame announces today that the improved mail facilities which the people have been seeking so long will go into effect Monday and there will be no waiting until June 1, when the summer schedule brings something better than the winter.

Clerk Thomas E. Stanhope has been assigned to night duty and will work in the office from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m., preparing late matter so that it will be ready for the carriers to take out the first thing in the morning. A mail is to arrive at 11 p. m., which will be worked by the night clerk. It is estimated that this will bring into the office 60 per cent of the mail which has usually come in the early morning, and thus 60 per cent of the sorting for the carriers to go out in the morning will have been done before they arrive at the office. Mail leaving Boston as late as 8 p. m. and Providence 15 minutes earlier will arrive here the same night. Mail leaving New York as late as 3 p. m. will reach here that night.

Four extra men—A R Townsend, Daniel E. Sullivan, William T. Bowler and Robert G. Babcock, Jr., will be added to the carriers' force, increasing it from 17 to 21, thus permitting division of the present routes and making the district of each smaller. These four new routes should permit the mail of the entire city to be delivered much more quickly than at present.

The Ocean drive now has but one delivery a day, while the new arrangements will give two the year around. For the present carriers in the business section will start a delivery at 7 a. m., but this is an experiment, for it is realized that most business places do not open until much later. To make this experiment a success—that is, to permit the mail to be at places of business when they first open—it will be necessary for the shops to co-operate by placing proper letter boxes at the doors, so that the mail can be left.

The carriers now lose 200 minutes a day in residential districts, ringing bells and waiting for people to come to doors to receive the mail. Only 5 per cent of residences are provided with letter boxes, and if the public would co-operate by providing proper receptacles more than three hours could be saved the carriers each day, and this would mean a more prompt delivery. In business places only 15 per cent at present are provided with receptacles for mail. The postoffice will do its part to give Newport better service, it is said, but the people are expected to assist so far as it is up to them.

A SUGGESTED PROGRAM.

Commissioner Ranger Issues Rhode Island Independence Day Bulletin.

The Rhode Island commissioner of public schools, Walter E. Ranger, has issued his bulletin for the annual observance in commemoration of the one hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary, May 4, of Rhode Island independence day. The usual address by the commissioner is omitted, but the bulletin contains a suggested program for the observance of the anniversary, selected hymns and songs, responsive readings, the Act of Independence by the colony in 1776, an article on "Stephen Hopkins," one of Rhode Island's signers of the Declaration of Independence" by Lewis H. Meader; a paper on "Rhode Island's Leadership," by Margaret H Irons of the Rhode Island Normal School; a paper on Esek Hopkins, the first admiral of the United States navy, with a historical play based on his life; another play, "The Spirit of '76 in Rhode Island;" brief sketches entitled "Rhode Island and Perry's Victory Centennial," "The Second Launching of the Niagara" and "Rhode Island and Gettysburg," and a poem, "The Bravest Battle," by Joaquin Miller.

BOND ACT PASSED.

Stone Bridge Commission Compensation Goes to Senate Calender.

The senate Friday passed in conference with the house the act authorizing the city of Newport to issue notes to the amount of $72,000, for the purpose of paying old notes, building new granolithic sidewalks and widening portions of Bath road, the house laid the proposed armory commission act on the table indefinitely. Senator Bennett desired immediate consideration of the resolution providing pay for the members of the commission on the revision of the criminal laws, but there was objection and it went to committee. The Stone Bridge commission compensation resolution went on the senate calendar.

The house passed an act which abolishes all officers of the general staff of the National Guard except that of adjutant general, to make the organization conform to the demands of the Dick law. The same body also passed in concurrence an amendment to the General Laws on the Soldiers' Home. This provides for two members of the Spanish War Veterans on the board of administration, in addition to the Civil War veterans. Acts further regulating towns and ward meetings and for the suppression of intemperance were passed in concurrence.

REV. MR. WARD'S FAMILY HERE.

Mrs William J. Ward, wife of the new pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and her youngest daughter, Eldoretta, arrived this afternoon and the family is now occupying the parsonage on Farewell street. They can hardly be said to be well settled here, as the extensive painting and papering planned for the interior is still incomplete. The eldest daughter, Marjorie L., a student at the Rhode Island School of Design in Providence, and the second daughter, Katherine C., who is at the Pingree School in Cambridge Mass., will not come to Newport permanently until the close of the school year. The youngest daughter will enter the Rogers High School at once.

STEAMER REPORTED.

SUICIDE BY SHOOTING.

Frederick J. Bullock of This City, Despondent, Kills Himself in Somerville.

A despatch from Somerville, Mass., announces that Frederick J. Bullock committed suicide, by shooting himself through the breast with a shotgun, in that city this morning. Mr. Bullock was secretary and treasurer of the former Newport Dry Goods Company and for two weeks past had been with the Century Company. Thursday afternoon, as if unable to stand the strain any longer, he said he must go and see his mother, and left on the last afternoon train for Somerville. Mr. Leys says he was exceedingly despondent while he was at that store, and Mr. Leys was not surprised to hear that he had killed himself. Everything was done while he was in his new position to cheer him up, but to no avail.

The deceased had been in Newport about 15 years and had become well and favorably known by those who patronized the old firm. He was of quiet disposition, but one of the kind who when he made a friend kept him, and those who were intimate with him all speak of him as a "mighty fine fellow." He was junior steward of St. John's Lodge and unmarried, being one of those men who considered the home of his mother his home, and from his earnings contributed for her support. He could not seem to recover from the retirement of his firm from activity in Newport, and this is thought to be largely responsible for his despondency.

CITY COMMITTEES.

Women Approve Police Station Plans—Seeking New Light on Fire Department.

At the meeting of the aldermanic committee on police station Friday afternoon Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mrs. Bradford Norman, Miss Burleigh and Miss Emery were present, to look over the plans especially with reference to the provisions made for women prisoners and children. The arrangements seemed ample and they expressed themselves as pleased with what had been done.

It will be recalled that the women of the Civic League had a hand in the work of starting the new police station. Their complaint about the inadequacy of the accommodations for women in the old station and the need of something to improve the conditions, made some time since when it really seemed that the idea of a new police station had died out, was the original reason for the new police station being so near to a start. Being responsible thus for a start, those interested were naturally anxious to see, before the plans were finally passed upon, if the request for adequate accommodations for women and children had been met in making the plans for the new station.

The committee on fire department organization met Friday evening, Mr. F W. Lawton of the First ward being absent. There was a general talk over the trials of the engines which the members had attended and concerning which they had a number of figures showing what had been done. It was thought that before taking any other action it would be well to visit the various fire stations and see personally what is there. Thursday afternoon next was suggested as a suitable time, if agreeable to Chief Kirwin and if the chief states that that day will suit him the committee will go around and look at the apparatus and houses. There was some talk of going away to see apparatus, and a place where a piston pump can be seen was among those mentioned. There was a great deal of talk, as the members had imbibed some ideas from the tests and are anxious for further illumination on the subject of fire apparatus, hose, men, etc.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WORK.

The highway department is at work on the Ocean Drive and Harrison avenue, and from reports by bicyclists that is a good road to avoid for a while. There is considerable stone spread over the roadway, waiting for the steam rollers, and two rollers are at work. When they are through and Harrison avenue has a coating of dustoline the road will be fine, but just for the present it would be as well to cut out bicycle touring on the Ocean Drive.

The work of re-surfacing Ledge road has been completed and the roller is at work on the south end of Coggeshall avenue.

The first car of dustoline is expected about May 1, which is about as early as dustoline can well be applied.

Contractor J. K. Sullivan has started the work of repairs at Briggs wharf.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Supervisor W. T. Berry has gone to New York.

—Friday a party of Italian gypsies arrived in town.

—Mrs. Gilbert T. Dunham is guest of relatives in this city.

—Mrs. Sidney Webster is expected from New York this afternoon.

—Misses Majel and Carol Pannenter have returned from Philadelphia and New York.

—Mrs Frank J. Eckhardt and Miss Bessie Eckhardt are visiting at West Point, N. Y.

—Repairs were made to steamer Islander, so that she was able to go to Block Island this morning.

—The musical service given at St. John's Church Easter will be repeated Sunday, with Mr. Ray Groff, violinist.

—William Loftus has sold for John H. Taylor and others the cottage at 11 Malborn court to John F. Silvia and others.

—Mr. and Mrs S. Olson, who have been spending the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Carl A. R. Liljewall, in Springfield, Mass., returned home today.

—Mr. Jere I. Greene, who has been on a trip to Buffalo and vicinity, returned home this morning and will probably tell something about the trip when he is thawed out.

—The automobile season of 1914 was inaugurated on Washington square this morning, when Auctioneer F. W. Greene sold a automobile for $200. That shows it is no longer snow time.

—When the government stations were informed by the Daily News this noon of the President's ultimatum to Mexico the news was received with thanks, but there were no comments.

—Among the passengers who arrived in New York on the Lusitania from Europe was Miss Susannah Peate of Chester, England, who has come from England to visit her brother, Mr. Harry Peate, superintendent of Mrs Ellen French Vanderbilt's stables.

—The committee in charge of the Irish Night entertainment has arranged a program of music including vocal selections by Miss Greta Morris, Miss Irene Burns, Mr. Patrick J. Lyons and Master Joseph Fogarty. Mr. Albert Cormette will be the accompanist. The decorations will be by Wilmarth.

"WHEN WOMEN RULE."

Farce Written by Local Author, to be Given by Mrs. Baxter and Mr. Milne.

Music, Reading and Dancing at DeBlois Council Ladies' Night Program.

The committee of DeBlois Council, No. 5, Royal and Select Masters, has arranged an excellent program for the ladies' night next Monday evening. The members of the United Congregational Church choir—Miss Caroline D. Anthony, Mrs. Frank S. Hale and Messrs. T. Fred Harry and Daniel U. Boone—will sing several numbers, including solos, duets and concerted pieces; Miss Dorothy Rooney will give selections on the violin, there will be a reading by Miss Louise C. Heard and a one-act farce, "When Women Rule," in which Mr. Joseph D. Milne and Mrs. Victor Baxter will appear. Miss Marian C. Dowling will be the accompanist. This program will be followed by dancing, with 12 numbers, for which Clark's orchestra will furnish the music. The program for the first part is as follows:

Quartet, "In Old Madrid" H. Trotere
Soprano Solo, "The Little Damozel" J. Novello
Miss Anthony
Duet, "Hunting Song" Frederick F. Bullard
Messrs. Harry and Boone
Violin Solo, "Nocturne" Chopin
Miss Rooney
Quartet, "Cribirbibin" A. Pestalozza
Tenor Solo, "Invictis," Bruno Huhn
Mr. Harry
Duet, "On Wings of Music" Mendelssohn
Miss Anthony and Mrs. Hale
Quartet, "Now the Night" Donizetti
Reading, "On a Street Car,"
Miss Heard
Farce, "When Women Rule."

The scene of the farce is supposed be in the office of the mayor, the characters being the mayor and his fiancee; time, about 9.30 a. m. Mrs. Baxter will have the part of the mayor's fiancee and Mr. Milne that of the mayor.

Mr. Milne has for some time been anxious to find a play written by some one in Newport and to this end, the past winter, advertised in the Daily News, with the result that several manuscripts were received, all of considerable merit and considered worthy of presentation. "When Women Rule" he is to present for approval, at this Ladies' Night, feeling satisfied that, to at least a modest extent, he can prove his contention that there is some talent in playwrighting here at home, and that given the incentive, meaning an opportunity to see one's work given a hearing, a deal of satisfacmon can be obtained by the author, with perhaps some day practical results. The author (he or she) in this little farce has no serious intent (so he or she contends) in the lines given to the characters, merely taking the subject of woman suffrage on which to base the story, because it seemed to lend itself to the purpose to amuse rather than cover a problem. The author assures Mr. Milne that (he or she) could have taken the opposite side of the fence just as gracefully and with as much of pleasure in the work.

The stage effects and surroundings will be arranged by Wilmarth and the electrical work will be by Scannevin & Potter.

The 12 dances on the program are dedicated to St. John's and St. Paul's Lodges, DeBlois Council, Eureka Lodge of Portsmouth, Newport Royal Arch Chapter, Aquidneck Royal Arch Chapter of Portsmouth, Washington Commandery, Van Rensselaer of Perfection, Aquidneck Chapter of the Eastern Star, the Thrice Illustrious Master, to the Ladies and to Sojourners in Newport.

The committee in charge of the entertainment consists of Thrice Illustrious Master Herbert W. Smith, Messrs. Karl Bostel, Charles W. Cowles, Andrew K. McMahon, Thomas W. Wood, Robert S. Burlingame, Charles H. Gesterling, Donald E. Spears, James Livesey, David Davis, Earl P. Mason and Edward E. Taylor and the other officers of the council; and Past Thrice Illustrious Masters Elbert A. Sisson, William H. Langley, Robert W. Curry, George C. Lawton, George Melville, Robert Frame, J. Irving Shepley and Alexander J. MacIver.

PUT-IN-BAY CLAIMS.

Representative Levy Assured That His Resolution Will be Reported.

Representative Max Levy has received assurances that his resolution, calling for the appointment of a commission to examine into and report upon the losses suffered by the state's representation at the Put-in-Bay celebration, because of typhoid fever, will be reported by the committee with recommendation of passage. There are many resolutions and claims in, but the size of the Artillery bill seems to have staggered the members of the legislature, and it has been apparent from the first that it would be necessary to take up the entire situation at once rather than in separate claims from first one part of the state and then another.

SEVEN SURVIVORS THERE.

Members of Company F Association Recall the War-Time and Elects Officers.

The members of Company F Association, comprising the survivors of Company F, First Rhode Island volunteer regiment, met at the Newport Artillery armory Friday evening to celebrate the fifty-third anniversary of their departure from Newport in 1861, at the call of President Lincoln for volunteers in the Civil war. The muster roll of the company comprised 110 officers and men, and of this number seven assembled to observe the anniversary—Ensign James H. Champelle, who appeared in the original uniform, and Messrs John B. Mason, George P. Lawton, Charles H. Clarke, George B. Smith, William Hamilton and Thomas H. Lawton.

Secretary Clarke called the roll and it was learned that 19 are still living, 15 residing in Newport. Two deaths, those of Albert N. Burdick and William H. Durfee, have occurred since the previous annual meeting.

The evening was devoted to war-time reminiscences and at the conclusion of the business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—John B. Mason.
Vice President—George P. Lawton.
Secretary and Treasurer—Charles H. Clarke.

The other members residing in Newport, who were unable to be present, are Benjamin F. Davis, Benjamin Easton, John B. F. Smith, Thomas Sharpe and Gustavus A. Clarke.

There was a general talk over the trials of the engines which the members had attended, and concerning which they had a number of figures showing what had been done. It was thought that before taking any other action it would be well to visit the various fire stations and see personally what is there. Thursday afternoon next was suggested as a suitable time, if agreeable to Chief Kirwin and if the chief states that that day will suit him the committee will go around and look at the apparatus and houses. There was some talk of going away to see apparatus, and a place where a piston pump can be seen was among those mentioned. There was a great deal of talk, as the members had imbibed some ideas from the tests and are anxious for further illumination on the subject of fire apparatus, hose, men, etc.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WORK.

The highway department is at work on the Ocean Drive and Harrison avenue, and from reports by bicyclists that is a good road to avoid for a while. There is considerable stone spread over the roadway, waiting for the steam rollers, and two rollers are at work. When they are through and Harrison avenue has a coating of dustoline the road will be fine, but just for the present it would be as well to cut out bicycle touring on the Ocean Drive.

The work of re-surfacing Ledge road has been completed and the roller is at work on the south end of Gorgeshall avenue.

The first car of dustoline is expected about May 1, which is about as early as dustoline can well be applied.

Contractor J. K. Sullivan has started the work of repairs at Briggs wharf.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Supervisor W. T. Berry has gone to New York.

—Friday a party of Italian gypsies arrived in town.

—Mrs. Gilbert T. Dunham is guest of relatives in this city.

—Mrs. Sidney Webster is expected from New York this afternoon.

—Misses Majel and Carol Parmenter have returned from Philadelphia and New York.

—Mrs. Frank J. Eckhardt and Miss Bessie Eckhardt are visiting at West Point, N. Y.

—Repairs were made to steamer Islander, so that she was able to go to Block Island this morning.

—The musical service given at St. John's Church Easter will be repeated Sunday, with Mr. Ray Groff, violinist.

—William Loftus has sold for John H. Taylor and others the cottage at 11 McNurn court to John F. Silvia and others.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. Olson, who have been spending the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Carl A. R. Liljewall, in Springfield, Mass., returned home today.

—Mr. Jere J. Greene, who has been on a trip to Buffalo and vicinity, returned home this morning and will probably tell something about the trip when he is thawed out.

—The automobile season of 1914 was inaugurated on Washington square this morning, when Auctioneer F. W. Greene sold a automobile for $200. That shows it is no longer snow time.

—When the government stations were informed by the Daily News this a.m. of the President's ultimatum to Mexico the news was received with thanks, but there were no comments.

—Among the passengers who arrived in New York on the Lusitania from Europe was Miss Susannah Peate of Chester, England, who has come from England to visit her brother, Mr. Henry Peate, superintendent of Mrs. Elliot French Vanderbilt's stables.

—The committee in charge of the Irish Night entertainment have arranged a program of music including vocal selections by Miss Greta Morris, Miss Irene Burns, Mr. Patrick J. Lyons and Master Joseph Fogarty. Mr. Albert Carmine will be the accompanist. Carmine will be by Wilmarth.

"WHEN WOMEN RULE."

Farce Written by Local Author, to be Given by Mrs. Baxter and Mr. Milne.

Music, Reading and Dancing at De Blois Council Ladies' Night Program.

The committee of DeBlois Council, No. 5, Royal and Select Masters, has arranged an excellent program for the ladies' night next Monday evening. The members of the United Congregational Church choir—Miss Caroline D. Anthony, Mrs. Frank S. Hale and Messrs. T. Fred Harry and Daniel U. Boone—will sing several numbers, including solos, duets and concerted pieces; Miss Dorothy Rooney will give selections on the violin, there will be a reading by Miss Louise C. Heard and a one-act farce, "When Women Rule," in which Mr. Joseph D. Milne and Mrs. Victor Baxter will appear. Miss Marian G. Dowling will be the accompanist. This program will be followed by dancing, with 12 numbers, for which Clark's orchestra will furnish the music. The program for the first part is as follows:

Quartet, "In Old Madrid" H. Trotere
Soprano Solo, "The Little Damazel" J. Novello
Miss Anthony
Duet, "Hunting Song" Frederick F. Bullard
Messrs. Harry and Boone
Violin Solo, "Nocturne" Chopin
Miss Rooney
Quartet, "Ciribiribin" A. Pestalozza
Tenor Solo, "Invictis," Bruno Huhn
Mr. Harry
Duet, "On Wings of Music" Mendelssohn
Miss Anthony and Mrs. Hale
Quartet, "Now the Night" Donizetti
Reading, "On a Street Car,"
Miss Heard
Farce, "When Women Rule."

The scene of the farce is supposed be in the office of the mayor, the characters being the mayor and his fiancee; time, about 9:30 a. m. Mrs. Baxter will have the part of the mayor's fiancee and Mr. Milne that of the mayor.

Mr. Milne has for some time been anxious to find a play written by some one in Newport and to this end, the past winter, advertised in the Daily News, with the result that several manuscripts were received, all of considerable merit and considered worthy of presentation. "When Women Rule" he is to present for approval, at this Ladies' Night, feeling satisfied that, to at least a modest extent, he can prove his contention that there is some talent in playwrighting here at home, and that given the incentive, meaning an opportunity to see one's work given a hearing, a deal of satisfaction can be obtained by the author, with perhaps some day practical results. The author (he or she) in this little farce has no serious intent (so he or she contends) in the lines given to the characters, merely taking the subject of woman suffrage on which to base the story, because it seemed to lend itself to the purpose to amuse rather than cover a problem. The author assures Mr. Milne that (he or she) could have taken the opposite side of the fence just as gracefully and with as much of pleasure in the work.

The stage effects and surroundings will be arranged by Wilmarth and the electrical work will be by Seannevin & Potter.

The 12 dances on the program are dedicated to St. John's and St. Paul's Lodges, DeBlois Council, Eureka Lodge of Portsmouth, Newport Royal Arch Chapter, Aquidneck Royal Arch Chapter of Portsmouth, Washington Commandery, Van Rensselaer of Perfection, Aquidneck Chapter of the Eastern Star, the Thrice Illustrious Master, to the Ladies and to Sojourners in Newport.

The committee in charge of the entertainment consists of Thrice Illustrious Master Herbert W. Smith, Messrs. Karl Bostel, Charles W. Cowles, Andrew K. McMahon, Thomas W. Wood, Robert S. Burlingame, Charles H. Gesterling, Donald E. Spears, James Livesey, David Davis, Earl P. Mason and Edward E. Taylor and the other officers of the council; and Past Thrice Illustrious Masters Elbert A. Sisson, William H. Langley, Robert W. Curry, George C. Lawton, George Melville, Robert Frame, J. Irving Shopley and Alexander J. MacIver.

PUT-IN-BAY CLAIMS.

Representative Levy Assured That His Resolution Will be Reported.

Representative Max Levy has received assurances that his resolution, calling for the appointment of a commission to examine into and report upon the losses suffered by the state's representation at the Put-in-Bay celebration, because of typhoid fever, will be reported by the committee with recommendation of passage. There are many resolutions and claims in, but the size of the Artillery bill seems to have staggered the members of the legislature, and it has been apparent from the first that it would be necessary to take up the entire situation at once rather than in separate claims from first one part of the state and then another.

SEVEN SURVIVORS THERE.

The members of Company F Association, comprising the survivors of Company F, First Rhode Island volunteer regiment, met at the Newport Artillery armory Friday evening to celebrate the fifty-third anniversary of their departure from Newport in 1861, at the call of President Lincoln for volunteers in the Civil war. The muster roll of the company comprised 110 officers and men, and of this number seven assembled to observe the anniversary—Ensign James H. Chappelle, who appeared in the original uniform, and Messrs John B. Mason, George P. Lawton, Charles H. Clarke, George B. Smith, William Hamilton and Thomas H. Lawton.

Secretary Clarke called the roll and it was learned that 19 are still living, 15 residing in Newport. Two deaths, those of Albert N. Burdick and William H. Durfee, have occurred since the previous annual meeting.

The evening was devoted to war-time reminiscences and at the conclusion of the business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—John B. Mason.
Vice President—George P. Lawton.
Secretary and Treasurer—Charles H. Clarke.

The other members residing in Newport, who were unable to be present, are Benjamin F. Davis, Benjamin Easton, John B. F. Smith, Thomas Sharpe and Gustavus A. Clarke.

TOLLS PROPOSITION ASSAILED.

Senator Works Holds That the Repeal Measure is Unconstitutional

Labor Opposes Piecework by Government Employes—Lodge Always Scholarly

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON April 17.—Hidden away in one of the speeches in the Senate is the suggestion that the repeal of the canal tolls proposition is unconstitutional Senator Works brought it out saying that the constitution provided that no preference should be given the ports of one state over those of another which would be the case if tolls were charged coastwise shipping in the canal He claimed that a shipment from New York to New Orleans would have the preference over a shipment from New York to San Diego because of the canal charges

That constitutional question is likely to be further debated in the Senate as quite a number of men have started in to prove that charging tolls for the Panama canal would be about the same as charging tolls through locks canals or streams in the United States In all probability every phase of the canal question will be debated before a final vote is taken

The Senate has a way of taking care of itself Much time was given to discussion of the amount of public money a Senator should be allowed to spend for telegraphing The committee on expenses fixed it at $60 and a vote of the Senate wiped it out entirely and after the resolution had been pending in the Senate for several days as the unfinished business It was displaced without a roll call and probably it will now retire to the graveyard Thus it appears that extravagance was condemned by many Senators and the Senate was virtuous enough to declare that it would not permit telegrams to be sent at government expense and the matter will rest right where it was in the beginning

Labor was strong enough to stop piecework in the departments of the government by action of the House recently Discussion showed that labor is averse to piecework, and there was similar condemnation by members of the House of a bureau chief who had installed the piecework system More particularly was he criticised because of the hard work that was imposed upon women employed in the bureau so hard and difficult that many were forced into other departments. It was declared by representatives of labor interests on the floor that the piecework system was being installed in carrying out several efficiency systems which have for their purpose speeding up all of the workers Congress is determined that that shall not be carried out in the government service

There are members of the House of Representatives who are calling Congressman John J Whitacre governor because he is a candidate for that office and quite a number of people think that he has a good chance of securing the nomination Whitacre does not like his Congressional job very well because he thinks the House kills time over too many small things and does not get down to business

I think it was Senator Root who said that Senator Lodge was the most finished orator in the country They always say of any speech which Lodge makes in the Senate that it is a scholarly address And that is a fact What is more it is generally a valuable contribution to the history of any subject that may be before the Senate About all the facts known in connection with the Panama Canal controversy can be found in a speech which Senator Lodge recently delivered in the Senate

The House was discussing something in connection with two bureaus in the Treasury Department one of which involved overworking the women employed in a bureau Minority Leader Mann insisted that it was a matter for the Secretary to determine and not the bureaus

The Secretary of the Treasury has other and delicate matters on hand that doubtless somewhat divide his attention said Congressman Bryan of Washington

I should suppose that they would incline him toward the side of women—one woman at least replied Mann And this delicate allusion to the coming marriage of Secretary McAdoo was greeted with applause

Jim Mann and Dr Foster of Illinois are warm friends notwithstanding they are on opposite sides politically They work together in legislation and it is found that unless it is something of a partisan nature they are helping each other as different bills are considered Foster is sometimes called the Jim Mann of the Democratic side because he objects to so many measures

ENTRANTS HAVE LAST TRIAL.

Boston Athletic Association's Marathon to be Held Monday

BOSTON April 18—Aspirants for Marathon honors in the Boston Athletic Association's seventeenth renewal of the long distance race Monday had their last work-outs today although very few of them went the whole 25 miles on account of the warm weather Unless rain interferes, the runners will find the very best footing for the roads are in grand condition from the start in Ashland to the finish in this city The entry list was held open today for belated athletes although those who show signs of being out of condition may find a physician's veto when they line up for the start

Much of the interest centres in the Scandinavian trio from Minneapolis, headed by Fritz Carlson who won last year in fast time His companions in the run this year will be John Karlsen and Lloyd Peterson

Practically the entire field will be in the vicinity of the course by tonight and tomorrow will be one of complete rest in order to conserve every ounce of strength for Monday

The race will start at noon, and the leaders are expected at the finish two hours and a half later The record for the course is two hours 21 minutes 18 1-5 seconds made by M J Ryan in 1912

SECRETARY DANIELS SPEAKS.

Cuyahoga County Democrats Entertain Distinguished Men.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 18.—Cuyahoga county Democrats entertained a distinguished company here today, preliminary to the "dollar dinner" of Democracy, at the Central armory tonight. Speaker Champ Clark, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Governor James M. Cox and Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio are to be the guests of honor at the banquet, and Mr. Clark and Mr. Daniels came early in the day to fulfil other engagements.

The day's program included an address before Western Reserve University law students in the morning by Secretary Daniels, a speech by Speaker Clark before the City Club in the afternoon, and addresses by Daniels, Clark and Governor Cox at the banquet in the evening.

Governor Cox will not arrive until late today. Congressman Carter Glass of Virginia, who was on the program for an address at the banquet, has cancelled the engagement because of illness. John H. Clarke of Cleveland, candidate for United States Senator, will preside at the banquet.

Appeal for the enlistment of well-trained, scholarly men in the cause of clean politics and better government was made by Secretary Daniels. The leader of the future, Mr. Daniels said, will be the scholar, the man who stands fearless of the sneer of the "boss."

Mr. Daniels took as the key-note of his remarks "The scholar in politics," and as an illustration of the need of men with high ideals in public life cited the achievements of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Jefferson, and other men who won distinction because, he said, they had the necessary qualifications.

HOSPITAL INSPECTED.

Eminent European Surgeons Attend Clinic at Johns Hopkins.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—Seventy eminent surgeons of Europe, who have been attending the International Congress of Surgeons in New York, witched a clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital today. Later they inspected the buildings of the hospital and medical school.

REAL ESTATE ATTACHED.

Suit Brought Against Boston & Maine by Curran of Westfield, N. J.

BOSTON, April 18.—A suit against the Boston & Maine Railroad Company for $300,000 was entered today by Robert F. Curran of Westfield N. J., who holds $210,000 of the company's notes. The company's real estate was attached by the plaintiff. The suit is one of several instituted by holders of a note issue which matured February 3, when most of the note holders agreed to an extension of time.

RACE ON THE SEVERN.

Midshipmen to Meet Pennsylvania 'Varsity and Freshmen Crews.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 18.—After a delayed period of coaching, due to the rough weather that has prevailed during the spring the navy boat racing season will open on the inner course of the Severn river this afternoon, when the midshipmen will meet the 'Varsity and Freshmen crews from the University of Pennsylvania. The races are to start at 4:30 o'clock. The indications are that the navy Freshman eight will have a hard battle with their opponents. The Navy's 'Varsity crew, however, has an advantage in weight.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Messrs. E. J. Berwind and Ogden Codman sailed today on the Olympic for Europe.

—C. H. Wrightington has rented for Mrs. A. M. Albro the upper part of the house at 77 Third street to Margaret Shaw —Passed Assistant Surgeon G. S. Mathaway has been detached from the naval hospital, Newport, and ordered to the marine advance base expedition, Pacific fleet.

—Barney took into his establishment a carload of pianos direct from the factory Friday, an undertaking which kept the Andrews Express teams busy the entire afternoon.

—At the Moose Club Friday evening David and John D. Burke defeated the Moose team, O'Connell and Fitzpatrick, in a game of pool, 100 to 67. This evening O'Connell will play a single match with Sergeant Jones of Fort Adams.

—Mr. Robert Kerr, former state representative and councilman from Ward 1, who had a bad spell Monday night, is still confined to bed, his condition remaining about the same. His physician does not state just what is the trouble.

—Mr Reginald C. Vanderbilt is one of the judges of harness horses at the Philadelphia Indoor Horse Show Association's third annual exhibition, now on at Philadelphia. He has offered one cup and his brother, Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, two cups, for the show.

—The water company is turning on the standpipes for the watering carts on Broadway. The recent rain seems to have washed off considerable of the dust, but experience shows that it does not take long for the stone which is used in making Newport's roadways to show another pulverized coating.

—Mr. Karl M. Stone, who for many years was a member of the Second Baptist Church choir before going to New York, will sing there Sunday morning and evening. Mr. Stone with his family and sister-in-law, Mrs. George Klapthor, are in Boston at the Hotel Essex to attend Mr. Stone's brother's wedding, which takes place tonight at Revere Beach.

—The Park Commission proposes to have some grass on Equality Park this year if this is a possible thing. A good barricade of wire netting has been put in place, following which the gardeners will do their work. The plot has been such a thoroughfare in all city affairs and there has been so much use of the place in general, that the grass has not had a chance to grow on the stomped-down ground.

—The license commissioners were out together Friday afternoon, but there was nothing serious. They had simply been on a visit to the premises for which Daniel J. O'Connell had asked a transfer, from 42 Burnside avenue to 68 West Broadway. Some changes were necessary in the latter place and the commissioners desired to see them before taking any action.

—At the Civic League House this evening Mrs. Alfred G. Langley will read the story of "Il Trovatore" to the Camp Fire Girls of Newport, their parents and friends who have been invited to hear the story. Mr. Langley will play several selections from the opera on the piano and Mr. Augustus Hazard Swan and Miss Rosamond Langley will sing a number of the best known parts of the opera. It will be a strictly invitation affair.

TOLLS PROPOSITION ASSAILED.

Senator Works Holds That the Repeal Measure is Unconstitutional.

Labor Opposes Piecework by Government Employes—Lodge Always Scholarly.

(Washington correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Hidden away in one of the speeches in the Senate is the suggestion that the repeal of the canal tolls proposition is unconstitutional. Senator Works brought it out, saying that the constitution provided that no preference should be given the ports of one state over those of another, which would be the case if tolls were charged coastwise shipping in the canal. He claimed that a shipment from New York to New Orleans would have the preference over a shipment from New York to San Diego because of the canal charges.

That constitutional question is likely to be further debated in the Senate, as quite a number of men have started in to prove that charging tolls for the Panama canal would be about the same as charging tolls through locks, canals or streams in the United States. In all probability every phase of the canal question will be debated before a final vote is taken.

The Senate has a way of taking care of itself. Much time was given to discussion of the amount of public money a Senator should be allowed to spend for telegraphing. The committee on expenses fixed it at $60, and a vote of the Senate wiped it out entirely, and after the resolution had been pending in the Senate for several days as the unfinished business it was displaced without a roll call, and probably it will now retire to the graveyard. Thus it appears that extravagance was condemned by many Senators, and the Senate was virtuous enough to declare that it would not permit telegrams to be sent at government expense, and the matter will rest right where it was in the beginning.

Labor was strong enough to stop piecework in the departments of the government by action of the House recently. Discussion showed that labor is averse to piecework, and there was similar condemnation by members of the House of a bureau chief who had installed the piecework system. More particularly was he criticised because of the hard work that was imposed upon women employed in the bureau, so hard and difficult that many were forced into other departments. It was declared by representatives of labor interests on the floor that the piecework system was being installed in carrying out several efficiency systems, which have for their purpose "speeding up" all of the workers. Congress is determined that that shall not be carried out in the government service.

There are members of the House of Representatives who are calling Congressman John J. Whitacre "governor," because he is a candidate for that office and quite a number of people think that he has a good chance of securing the nomination. Whitacre does not like his Congressional job very well because he thinks the House kills time over too many small things and does not get down to business.

I think it was Senator Root who said that Senator Lodge was the most finished orator in the country. They always say of any speech which Lodge makes in the Senate that it is a "scholarly address." And that is a fact. What is more, it is generally a valuable contribution to the history of any subject that may be before the Senate. About all the facts known in connection with the Panama Canal controversy can be found in a speech which Senator Lodge recently delivered in the Senate.

The House was discussing something in connection with two bureaus in the Treasury Department, one of which involved overworking the women employed in a bureau. Minority Leader Mann insisted that it was a matter for the Secretary to determine and not the bureaus.

"The Secretary of the Treasury has other and delicate matters on hand that doubtless somewhat divide his attention," said Congressman Bryan of Washington.

"I should suppose that they would incline him toward the side of women—one woman at least," replied Mann. And this delicate allusion to the coming marriage of Secretary McAdoo was greeted with applause

Jim Mann and Dr. Foster of Illinois are warm friends notwithstanding they are on opposite sides politically. They work together in legislation, and it is found that unless it is something of a partisan nature they are helping each other as different bills are considered. Foster is sometimes called the "Jim Mann of the Democratic side," because he objects to so many measures.

OFF ON 90-MILE RIDE.

Officers of Massachusetts Volunteer Militia Leave Boston on Test.

BOSTON, April 18.—A 90-mile ride, the first test of the kind undergone by officers of the Massachusetts volunteer militia, was started from this city today. The officers, headed by Brigadier General E. Leroy Sweetser, were physically examined before the start at 9 a. m. from the Officers' club in the Allston district. The first lap was to take the party to Lowell, by way of Cambridge, Lexington, Bedford and Billerica. After spending the night at the Vesper Country Club, the officers will proceed to Nashua, N. H., and thence by way of Derry and Salem, N. H., to the Merrimac County Club. The third day they will return to Allston.

The army regulations require that one of the rides be concluded within six hours, 30 minutes, and two of them within seven hours, 30 minutes, including proper rests.

OLD PUPILS PARTICIPATE.

Hingham Celebrates Two Hundredth Anniversary of Madam Derby.

HINGHAM, Mass., April 18.—The two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Madam Sarah Derby, founder of the old Derby Academy of this town, was celebrated today. The exercises took the form of an old-fashioned "Derby lecture day" and the participants included many old pupils, some of whom attended the academy in 1846. An address by John D. Long, former governor and former Secretary of the Navy, was on the program

ENTRANTS HAVE LAST TRIAL.

Boston Athletic Association's Marathon to be Held Monday.

BOSTON, April 18.—Aspirants for Marathon honors in the Boston Athletic Association's seventeenth renewal of the long distance race Monday had their last work-outs today, although very few of them went the whole 25 miles, on account of the warm weather. Unless rain interferes, the runners will find the very best footing, for the roads are in grand condition from the start in Ashland to the finish in this city. The entry list was held open today for belated athletes, although those who show signs of being out of condition may find a physician's veto when they line up for the start.

Much of the interest centres in the Scandinavian trio from Minneapolis, headed by Fritz Carlson, who won last year in fast time. His companions in the run this year will be John Karlsen and Lloyd Peterson.

Practically the entire field will be in the vicinity of the course by tonight, and tomorrow will be one of complete rest in order to conserve every ounce of strength for Monday.

The race will start at noon, and the leaders are expected at the finish two hours and a half later. The record for the course is two hours, 21 minutes 18 1-5 seconds, made by M. J. Ryan in 1912.

FOR YALE TAP DAY

Juniors Asked to Subscribe to Set of Resolutions.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 18.—The agitation in the academic Junior class at Yale in the matter of selections for the three Senior societies on "tap day," next month, today took definite form in a set of resolutions to which Juniors are asked to subscribe.

The first paragraph calls for preparation by each Junior of a list of 45 men whom he shall consider to be his choice for election to the Senior societies. A list of the 50 men receiving the highest number of selections shall be published in the Yale News.

In the second paragraph every signer of the resolution adopts agreements to endeavor in every way to confine the proceedings to members of the Junior class and Senior society men, and exclude the publicity that was connected with last year's tap day ceremonies. The ballot box for voting on the adoption of the resolutions will close tonight.

MILITANTS SUSPECTED.

Belfast Corporation's Tea Rooms in Bellevue Gardens, Belfast, Burned.

BELFAST, Ireland, April 18.—The Belfast Corporation's tea rooms in Bellevue gardens were destroyed by fire today, with large loss. The fire is believed by the police to have been the work of militant suffragettes.

MRS. M'CARTNEY DEAD.

One of the Founders of the Daughters of the Revolution.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 18.—Mrs. Katherine Searle McCartney, 77 years old, one of the founders of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and a widely known genealogist, died here early today. She was the widow of the late General William H. McCartney of New York city.

BRILLIANT CLOSE OF SEASON.

Soloist Chorus and Orchestra Unite in Doing Fine Work.

The third season of the Oratorio Society was brought to a brilliant close with its sixth concert, in the First Presbyterian Church, Friday evening. The spacious edifice was filled with an appreciative audience, including well known musical people of the city. The chorus appeared with full ranks and sang with great spirit. The orchestra was much in evidence and but few players were absent. The instruments present were four first violins (Mr. Ray Groff, Mr. John Hodgson, Miss Jessamine Chace, Miss Dorothy Rooney); four second violins (Messrs. Harry Sanquist and W. D. Humphrey, Mrs. Alvan H. Sanborn, Mr. George Tubley); viola, Mr. Carl Hilken; cello, Mr. Robert Aberg; contrabass, Mr. Howard G. Milne; flutes, Messrs. William E. Patrick and Joseph W. Blaine; clarinet, Mr. Michele Catalani; cornet, Mr. Daniel A. Boss; euphonium, Mr. A. Livingston Mason. The oboe was missed, as various places in the orchestration seemed to call for it. The organ was played with the orchestra at such times and in such a way as to supplement it efficiently; of course it was played right for Mr. H. Wood Thompson was the organist.

Mr. Victor Baxter, conductor, first presented an orchestra number, an overture, in D, by A. Schiavelli. Then came the Brahms "Song of Destiny," by full chorus and orchestra. The chorus showed careful drilling and conscientious work by the singers. The altos and bases gave some tone color. There was much accuracy on staccato chords, effective phrasing, and a splendid volume of good quality of tone.

The orchestra then played the intermezzo from the "Jewels of the Madonna," and the Hiller "Song of Victory" followed. In this work, the chorus had the assistance of Mrs. Charlotte Linnell Wyre of Boston, soprano soloist. She proved to be equal to the difficult role, as she has a voice of much power. It is also a voice of unusually clear, true and pure quality. Of her part as of all the rest of the program, it might be said that the softer and more musical tones were little in evidence. Possibly this was the scheme of the whole program mapped out for the evening, and, again, before emphasizing this too much, it might be queried whether the entire membership was so faithful in attending rehearsals that Mr. Baxter could safely go into the matter of shading. At all events, what was attempted by the soloist and the chorus was fully and well carried out.

The organ was a little more in evidence in this work, and a good word can be said for the orchestra, too, for it is no "snap" for so many players to be used in accompanying a finished vocalist like Mrs. Wyre, and have it come out so succesfully. This sort of work is far from what the majority of players are expected to do. For instance, double bass parts in "five flats" are about as tough a proposition as a composer can hand out to this imporant instrument; and to some extent the same is true of the viola and violins.

The opening chorus, "The Lord great wonders for us hath wrought," was given with much life and enthusiasm and it was well done. The soprano solo followed, the chorus also having a part with the solo, and all, including organ and orchestra, did good work. The odd (might it be called outlandish?) chorus, "The heathen are fallen in the pit," was given with even more fire. Mrs. Wyre's solo, "See, it is written in the Book," was well given, and she was joined by the chorus in each other closely; but at the end the soweth." After the chorus, "Mighty is our God." Mrs. Wyre and the chorus sang "Praise ye the Lord," and with a grand burst of power the chorus, "Praise the Lord for His great wonders! Hallelujah! Hallelujah!" brought the program to an end.

There was not much opportunity for applause, as the numbers followed each other closely; but at the end the audience made it very evident that it had greatly appreciated the music.

Mr. Baxter has done a great deal of work in preparation for this concert. His is a position of no little responsibility. It is very gratifying to see the way in which the musicians rally around him. The Oratorio society is now in a condition to do excellent work, and everybody is to be congratulated.

An entertainment and dance was given in the Gardener House hall Friday evening by the Jamestown Band. Before the affair the band paraded the principal streets, its appearance calling forth much favorable comment. Music for dancing was furnished by Peckham's orchestra. The attendance was large.

Mr. Charles Tucker of Point Judith is guest of his brother, Mr. H. B. Tucker, on Brook street.

Mr. Bowen Schade has returned from Nantucket for a short visit to his mother, Mrs. M. Schade.

C. E. Weeden has rented his furnished cottage on Walcott avenue, known as the North cottage, to Mrs. F. E. Weeden of Providence for the season.

FISHING NOTES.

Hauled out at the shipyard are fishing sloops Little Addie, Thomas B. Congdon and Wood and Mack, all to paint and make ready for the trip to Atlantic City. Fishing sloop Virginia of New Bedford is in for bait.

The lobster men are beginning to bring enough lobsters to make a showing. A few were received from the local pots before today, but this was the first real day. There are still most of the pots ashore, waiting for better weather conditions to put in.

FINE BUNTING DISPLAY.

Gathering Not Too Large to Crowd the Floor at Camp Thomas Social.

The eighth annual social of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, for the benefit of the relief fund, at the state armory Friday night, proved to be one of the most enjoyable. There was a good-sized gathering, but not sufficient to crowd the floor to inconvenience and it was in this fact that the dancers found reason to express their gratification. The music by McCloskey's augmented orchestra was strictly up-to-date while the order of dances contained the modern steps and the 18 numbers gave full opportunity for an evening full of pleasure.

The decorations, in navy form, were profuse. Chief Quartermaster Grant of the Training Station, a member of the Camp, spent the day with a detail of bluejackets in completely smothering the drill shed with signal flags and the Stars and Stripes, and it was a beautiful lot of bunting which he had displayed. The Camp colors were added to the array, Comrade Grant receiving many compliments on the appearance of the hall. A very acceptable sum will be added to the relief fund.

The committee in charge comprised Christopher J. Cooper, chairman; H. C. Richter, J. W. Garris, Thomas Hardy and Charles Grant.

ONE WOUNDED BY A BULLET.

American Teachers from Beirut American College Attacked.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 18.—American teachers from the Beirut American College were attacked and robbed by brigands, and one of them was slightly wounded by a bullet while they were on an excursion yesterday to the Sea of Galilee, now known as Lake Tiberias. The American consul general at Beirut, in reporting the occurrence to the embassy here today, said the Americans came from the American College, and that the one wounded was not dangerously hurt.

The Syrian Protestant College, founded by Rev. Dr. Daniel Bliss, an American Congregational clergyman, is understood to be meant, but it is generally known as the American College. It is an extensive institution under the direction of Rev. Howard S. Bliss, a son of the founder.

The American ambassador called the attention of the Turkish authorities to the outrage and was given the promise that the property of the American teachers would be recovered and the brigands punished.

NEW YORK, April 18, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 73¾, American Car Foundry 49½, American Smelting Rfg 66, American Sugar Rfg 99⅞, Anaconda 34, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 95½, Baltimore & Ohio 87⅞, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 90⅝, Canadian Pacific 190⅝, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 97⅜, Erie 27⅞, Great Northern Preferred 121¾, Illinois Central 110¼, Missouri Pacific 19¾, New York Central 87½, Northern Pacific 109½, Reading 162, Republic Iron & Steel 22⅝, Southern Pacific 91⅛, Union Pacific 153¾, United States Steel 57⅞, Western Union 61⅜.

10:45—Heavy pressure was again directed against the stock market in today's early trading and the week's decline was extended. All the favorite speculative shares were unloaded in large amounts. Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, Steel and Can were depressed 1 to 1 3-4. Lowest prices of the year were touched by Steel, Reading and Union Pacific. Missouri Pacific and Lehigh Valley, which were acutely weak yesterday, met with support and, after selling off fractionally, rallied. Missouri Pacific made a net gain of a point and Lehigh Valley 1-2. New Haven advanced a point.

Closing.—The market closed firm. The action of the market indicated that the selling movement had run its course for the time being. Raiding tactics of the bears failed to bring out more long stock, and after the early decline the market made a consistently good showing. At the end of the session prices ranged around yesterday's close, with material gains in a few instances. Heavy covering of Lehigh Valley sent it up sharply. Announcement of plans for meeting the Missouri Pacific and New Haven notes, which fall due, was of good effect on those stocks and stimulated buying elsewhere. Bonds were steady. Call money, nominal. Time loans, steady; 60 days, 2½; 90 days 2¾; 6 months 3 @ 3¼. Mercantile paper, 3½ @ 4. Sterling exchange, steady; 60 day bills $485.20; for demand $487.05. Commercial bills, $484½. Bar silver 58. Mexican dollars 45½. Government bonds, easy; railroad bonds, steady. Exchanges, $340,470,523; balances, $21,949,916. For the week—Exchanges, $2,077,532,730; balances, $116,440,130.

BRILLIANT CLOSE OF SEASON,

Soloist Chorus and Orchestra Unite in Doing Fine Work.

The third season of the Oratorio Society was brought to a brilliant close with its sixth concert, in the First Presbyterian Church, Friday evening. The spacious edifice was filled with an appreciative audience, including well known musical people of the city. The chorus appeared with full ranks and sang with great spirit. The orchestra was much in evidence and but few players were absent. The instruments present were four first violins (Mr. Ray Groff, Mr. John Hodgson, Miss Jessamine Chace, Miss Dorothy Rooney); four second violins (Messrs. Harry Malquist and F. D. Humphrey, Mrs. Alvan H. Sanborn, Mr. George Tuckey); viola, Mr. Carl Hilken; cello, Mr. Robert Aberg; contrabass, Mr. Howard G. Milne; flutes, Messrs. William E. Patrick and Joseph W. Baine; clarinet, Mr. Michele Catalani; cornet, Mr. Daniel A. Boss; euphonium, Mr. A. Livingston Mason. The oboe was missed, as various places in the orchestration seemed to call for it. The organ was played with the orchestra at such times and in such a way as to supplement it efficiently; of course it was played right for Mr. H. Wood Thompson was the organist.

Mr. Victor Baxter, conductor, first presented an orchestra number, an overture, in D, by A. Scontavelli. Then came the Brahms "Song of Destiny," by full chorus and orchestra. The chorus showed careful drilling and conscientious work by the singers. The altos and bases gave some tone color. There was much accuracy on staccato chords, effective phrasing, and a splendid volume of good quality of tone.

The orchestra then played the intermezzo from the "Jewels of the Madonna," and the Hiller "Song of Victory" followed. In this work, the chorus had the assistance of Mrs. Charlotte Linnell Wyre of Boston, soprano soloist. She proved to be equal to the difficult role, as she has a voice of much power. It is also a voice of unusually clear, true and pure quality. Of her part as of all the rest of the program, it might be said that the softer and more musical tones were little in evidence. Possibly this was the scheme of the whole program mapped out for the evening, and, again, before emphasizing this too much, it might be queried whether the entire membership was so faithful in attending rehearsals that Mr. Baxter could safely go into the matter of shading. At all events, what was attempted by the soloist and the chorus was fully and well carried out.

The organ was a little more in evidence in this work, and a good word can be said for the orchestra, too, for it is no "snap" for so many players to be used in accompanying a finished vocalist like Mrs. Wyre, and have it come out so successfully. This sort of work is far from what the majority of players are expected to do. For instance, double bass parts in "five flats" are about as tough a proposition as a composer can hand out to this imporant instrument; and to some extent, the same is true of the viola and violins.

The opening chorus, "The Lord great wonders for us hath wrought," was given with much life and enthusiasm and it was well done. The soprano solo followed, the chorus also having a part with the solo, and all, including organ and orchestra, did good work. The odd (might it be called outlandish?) chorus, "The heathen are fallen in the pit," was given with even more fire. Mrs. Wyre's solo, "See, it is written in the Book," was well given, and she was joined by the chorus in each other closely; but at the end the soweth." After the chorus, "Mighty is our God." Mrs. Wyre and the chorus sang "Praise ye the Lord," and with a grand burst of power the chorus, "Praise the Lord for His great wonders! Hallelujah! Hallelujah!" brought the program to an end.

There was not much opportunity for applause, as the numbers followed each other closely; but at the end the audience made it very evident that it had greatly appreciated the music.

Mr. Baxter has done a great deal of work in preparation for this concert. His is a position of no little responsibility. It is very gratifying to see the way in which the musicians rally around him. The Oratorio society is now in a condition to do excellent work, and everybody is to be congratulated.

FISHING NOTES.

Hauled out at the shipyard are fishing sloops Little Addie, Thomas B. Congdon and Wood and Mack, all to paint and make ready for the trip to Atlantic City. Fishing sloop Virginia of New Bedford is in for bait.

The lobster men are beginning to bring enough lobsters to make a showing. A few were received from the local pots before today, but this was the first real day. There are still most of the pots ashore, waiting for better weather conditions to put in.

FINE BUNTING DISPLAY.

Gathering Not Too Large to Crowd the Floor at Camp Thomas Social.

The eighth annual social of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, for the benefit of the relief fund, at the state armory Friday night, proved to be one of the most enjoyable. There was a good-sized gathering, but not sufficient to crowd the floor to inconvenience and it was in this fact that the dancers found reason to express their gratification. The music by McCloskey's augmented orchestra was strictly up-to-date while the order of dances contained the modern steps and the 18 numbers gave full opportunity for an evening full of pleasure.

The decorations, in navy form were profuse. Chief Quartermaster Grant of the Training Station, a member of the Camp, spent the day with a detail of bluejackets in completely smothering the drill shed with signal flags and the Stars and Stripes, and it was a beautiful lot of bunting which he had displayed. The Camp colors were added to the array. Commander Grant receiving many compliments on the appearance of the hall. A very acceptable sum will be added to the relief fund.

The committee in charge consisted Christopher J. Cooper, chairman; H. C. Richter, J. W. Garris, Thomas Hardy and Charles Grant.

ONE WOUNDED BY A BULLET.

American Teachers from Beirut American College Attacked.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 18.—American teachers from the Beirut American College were attacked and robbed by brigands, and one of them was slightly wounded by a bullet while they were on an excursion yesterday to the Sea of Galilee, now known as Lake Tiberias. The American consul general at Beirut, in reporting the occurrence to the embassy here today, said the Americans came from the American College, and that the one wounded was not dangerously hurt.

The Syrian Protestant College, founded by Rev. Dr. Daniel Bliss, an American Congregational clergyman, is understood to be meant, but it is generally known as the American College. It is an extensive institution under the direction of Rev. Howard S. Bliss, a son of the founder.

The American ambassador called the attention of the Turkish authorities to the outrage and was given the promise that the property of the American teachers would be recovered and the brigands punished.

10:45—Heavy pressure was again directed against the stock market in today's early trading and the week's decline was extended. All the favorite speculative shares were unloaded in large amounts. Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, Steel and Can were depressed 1 to 1 3-4. Lowest prices of the year were touched by Steel, Reading and Union Pacific. Missouri Pacific and Lehigh Valley, which were acutely weak yesterday, met with support and, after selling off fractionally, rallied. Missouri Pacific made a net gain of a point and Lehigh Valley 1-2. New Haven advanced a point.

Closing.—The market closed firm. The action of the market indicated that the selling movement had run its course for the time being. Raiding tactics of the bears failed to bring out more long stock, and after the early decline the market made a consistently good showing. At the end of the session prices ranged around yesterday's close, with material gains in a few instances. Heavy covering of Lehigh Valley sent it up sharply. Announcement of plans for meeting the Missouri Pacific and New Haven notes, which fall due, was of good effect on those stocks and stimulated buying elsewhere. Bonds were steady. Call money, nominal. Time loans, steady: 60 days, 2½; 90 days 2¾; 6 months 3 @ 3¼. Mercantile paper, 3½ @ 4. Sterling exchange, steady; 60 day bills $485.20; for demand $487.05. Commercial bills, $484½. Bar silver 58. MAKES PEOPLE LAUGH.

"Brewster's Millions" Has Been a Big Drawing Card for Five Years.

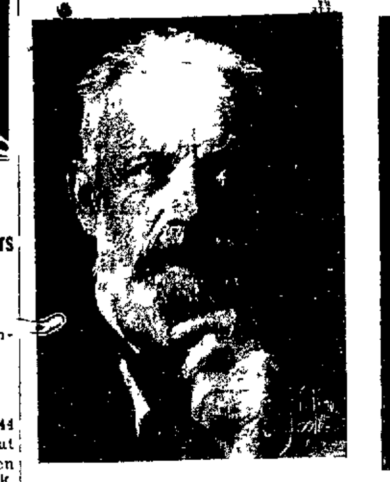

From the big sale of seats for the opening performances of the Malley Denison Stock Company at the opera house it is safe to say that when the curtain rises on Brewster's Millions next Monday the house will be full As is well known Brewster's Millions is an unusual play While there is a charming love story running through it its chief purpose is to make people laugh and thus it has been one of the big drawing cards of the stage for the last five years and Messrs Malley and Denison have secured it for production here at a large royalty As most [illegible] know the play is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's unique story of the same title It teems with breezy exhilarating action and thrilling incidents and will test all the strength of the Malley Denison Company

Blanche Shirley and James Crane have [illegible] their return to Newport [illegible] greeting their many friends receiving and returning calls and at the same time studying hard rehearsing their parts in Brewster's Millions They are delighted at being here once more They will be seen in a number of plays and their supporting company is excellent throughout

TRIBUTES TO CAPTAIN COTTON.

A K McMahon Elected President and W H Langley Vice President

Co-Operative Association Hears the Annual Report and Proposes Changes in By Laws.

The Newport Co-Operative Association for Saving and Building held its annual meeting for the election of officers in Grand Army hall Friday evening The twenty sixth annual report was read officers were elected —largely re elected—and the Association was given a good start on its twenty-seventh year There was a good attendance of members and more talk than usual

Several tributes were paid to the late president Captain J P Cotton who had been at the head of the organization from the start and was absent from this meeting only because of the call of death It was suggested that it would be a pleasing recognition of his work for the Association if the members should each make a small contribution toward the Cotton memorial A resolution of regret at his death was adopted and ordered spread on the record

Proposed amendments to the by laws were read and will come up for action next year They are all minor the only important one being that changing the term forfeited shares to suspended shares The Association does not forfeit shares but if payments are not kept up the share is suspended and held for the owner so it was thought well to change the title

There was considerable talk on the part of officers and members over the fact that the demand for funds is in excess of the ability of the Association to furnish money for building The fact that $34 000 in cash had to be paid out to maturing stockholders in the past year showed why that sum could not be loaned to would be borrowers There seems to be but one method of relief to have more non-borrowing members men and women who put in to save only A suggestion to increase the number of shares one member can hold met with general disapproval as it was found to work out badly

A look ahead indicates that the demand for money for maturing shares will not be as great this year as last At present there are 302 shares in the two maturing series against 242 last year that is there are 60 more shares maturing but the pledged shares are 195 this year against 115 last or 80 more This means that more shares will mature which will be repaid by the cancellation of loans It may be that the amount of the loans will not be as large as last year but there are more of them also more maturing shares

There was the usual payment of dues before and after the meeting which was called to order shortly after 8 by Vice President and acting President McMahon who called on Secretary Kaull to read the financial report The figures of the report have already appeared in the News April 11

In reading the report Secretary Kaull made a comparison of the gains or losses with last year These showed that the loans on real estate are $ 350 more and the loans on shares $8 800 in excess of last year The total assets are $63 281 89 more than for the last annual report The dividends for the year were $ more than last year and the guaranty fund was increased by $701 70

On the cash account the receipts from dues showed a gain of $1 238 and the receipts from interest fees and fines were $3 543 69 more than in 1913 The loans repaid on real estate were $5 and on shares $3 100 more than last year The loans cancelled by maturity while aggregating $17 were $2 less than last year

The new loans on real estate were $ 0 in excess of last year and on shares $10 00 more The value of the matured shares was $2 00 74 more and the amount of withdrawn stock $10 601 more The expense was $159 67 less due to the fact that last year was moving year It was found necessary to borrow $34 000 from the bank to meet maturing shares as against $8 000 the year before That told wonders as to why there was not more money for would be borrowers

After the reading of the statement President McMahon had something to say He had already referred to the death of Captain Cotton and to the fact that this was the first meeting the latter had missed since the organization of the Association of which he was such an important part He then referred back to the time when the Association was formed in Rivers hall March 9 1888 The first annual meeting was held March 15 1889 At that time the first annual report showed there were 188 members holding 1 0 1 shares with a total value of $1 771 07 Today there are 1 292 members holding 10 71 shares of a total value of $560 280 76 The past year has been the greatest in the history of the organization more than 3 500 shares having been issued The total amount of dues paid into the Association since the beginning is $1 7 6 195 71

He then called upon Mr T T Pitman chairman of the committee on revision of the by laws to make a report It was found that certain minor changes were needed and a committee of the directors was appointed to make them Mr Pitman made the report explaining each change Some idea of their nature may be had from one or two The by-laws limited the capital to $700 000 this has been ex-

POLICE NOTES

The police added nothing to history this morning having no prisoners before the court They had rounded up a number of boys who were about the beach pavilion after the recent ball and had taken some articles from the convention hall They were given a lecture as were the boys who were at the Point at the Shipley place There were no criminal charges but the boys were told that they must try to stick to the right path if they would grow up right

Friday a boy's go cart was reported as stolen down town Later it was found It had been requisitioned as an express wagon to carry wire netting and is again in the custody of its owner

From the Mary Street playground comes a real tale of woe There was a ball game on the playground and a ball was driven through the window of Mr Smith's house on the street The boys were good sports and had the pane of glass replaced but they learned that Mrs Smith had burned the ball The question is what will be done about it

SHOWS ITS BEST FORM.

Rogers Base Ball Team, in Final Try-Out, Hits the Ball Well.

In their final try-out before the St. George's game the Rogers base ball team showed its best form so far this season by a wide margin. Every member on the team, which is known for its weak hitting, "walloped" the ball all over the lot, Tubley making a home run over the centre field wall, while triples and doubles were prominent. In a scrub game the Rogers boys batted around twice in two innings, making at least 15 runs, and after that no score was kept. The opposing nine reached third base only once, Cremin pitching in fine form.

Manager Lawton gave out the new suits purchased last season Friday afternoon, and with these uniforms, which are spick and span, the high school team should make a neat appearance against St. George's. In fielding the practice game was featured by two sensational catches by Hobbs, who is playing an exceptionally fast outfield game.

ON THE ROLL OF DEATHS.

William B. Manuel, for Forty-Four Years With Steamboat Companies.

Dr. Charles H. Porter, Formerly Minister at Channing Church, and Mrs. Christopher Ellery.

Mr. William B. Manuel, for 44 years in the employ of the steamboat companies operating lines between Fall River, Newport and New York, died at his home on Second street Friday evening, after a long illness, death being due to a complication of diseases. He was 73 years old, was born in Newport and had always made his home here, although spending a considerable portion of the time in the employ of the steamboat company in Fall River. He first went to work for the company as a clerk, under the late John A. Jordan. Later he went to Fall River as foreman of the dock and held that position for 29 years, being pensioned April 1, 1913.

His wife died several years ago and he is survived by a sister, Miss Sarah H. Manuel; two daughters, Mrs. Alice G. Merritt and Mrs. Nelson T. Spellman; and five sons—Simmons A., William H., Edward S., Arthur A. and Lloyd Manuel.

Dr. Charles Hunt Porter, minister of the Channing Memorial Church of this city from 1879 to 1902, died Thursday at his home in Taunton. He resided in Quincy, Mass., while he attended Harvard University and the Harvard Divinity School, where he graduated in 1895. He had pastorates in Brooklyn, N. Y., and Hingham, Mass., before coming to Newport. While here he studied medicine and later entered Columbia Medical School, where he graduated in medicine in 1908, beginning practice in Springfield and later going to Taunton. After being divorced from his first wife, here, he married Mrs. Lelia B. Briggs of this city, who survives him.

News was received here Friday afternoon by relatives, of the death in California of Mrs. Mary Alice (Van Alstyne) Ellery, wife of Mr. Christopher Ellery. She was formerly a Middletown woman, and resided there before and after her marriage for a number of years. Mr. Ellery is brother of Miss Anna G. Ellery of this city and after living a number of years in Middletown, where he was well known, removed several years ago to California and is now engaged in agriculture at Valverdi Farm, Yountville, Napa county, in that state. Mrs. Ellery was a woman of charming personality and had many friends in Newport and Middletown.

Mrs. Martha Clark, sister of the late Charles Bickerton, formerly of this city, died at her home in Somerville, Mass., Thursday. The body will be brought to Newport Monday for interment.

MAKES PEOPLE LAUGH.

"Brewster's Millions" Has Been a Big Drawing Card for Five Years.

From the big sale of seats for the opening performances of the Malley-Denison Stock Company at the Opera House it is safe to say that when the curtain rises on "Brewster's Millions" next Monday the house will be full. As is well known, "Brewster's Millions" is an unusual play. While there is a charming love story running through it, its chief purpose is to make people laugh, and this it does. It has been one of the big drawing cards of the stage for the past five years and Messrs. Malley and Denison have secured it for production here by paying a large royalty. As most readers know, the play is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's unique story of the same name. It teems with breezy, exhilarating action and stirring incidents and will tax the full strength of the Malley-Denison Company.

Blanche Shirley and James Crane have been busy since their return to Newport last Monday, greeting their many friends, receiving and returning calls, and at the same time studying and rehearsing their parts in "Brewster's Millions." They are delighted at being here once more. They will be seen in a number of plays and their supporting company is excellent throughout.

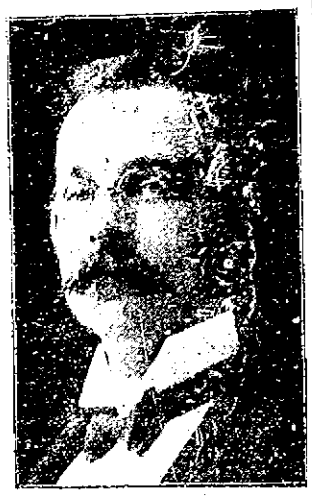

SOMETHING LIKE SUMMER.

This is the second consecutive day of sunshine. People are beginning to talk of summer. The storm sash have been ordered down off the City Hall and all preparations are under way for welcoming warm weather. Still, when the wind blew cool breezes from the southwest this week, those who had overcoats found them comfortable. The temperature did not rise above 55, though on Friday it stood 54 at noon and 56 at 2 p. m. Real summer weather is now expected every day. Friday the mercury went above the temperature mark. People are glad to see it stay well above the freeze mark.

NEW OFFICERS OF CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

ANDREW K. M'MAHON,
President.

WILLIAM H. LANGLEY,
Vice President.

TRIBUTES TO CAPTAIN COTTON.

A. K. McMahon Elected President and W. H. Langley Vice President.

Co-Operative Association Hears the Annual Report and Proposes Changes in By-Laws.

The Newport Co-Operative Association for Saving and Building held its annual meeting for the election of officers in Grand Army hall Friday evening. The twenty-sixth annual report was read, officers were elected—largely re-elected—and the Association was given a good start on its twenty-seventh year. There was a good attendance of members and more talk than usual.

Several tributes were paid to the late president, Captain J. P. Cotton, who had been at the head of the organization from the start and was absent from this meeting only because of the call of death. It was suggested that it would be a pleasing recognition of his work for the Association if the members should each make a small contribution toward the Cotton memorial. A resolution of regret at his death was adopted and ordered spread on the record.

Proposed amendments to the by-laws were read and will come up for action next year. They are all minor, the only important one being that changing the term "forfeited" shares to "suspended" shares. The Association does not forfeit shares, but if payments are not kept up the share is suspended and held for the owner, so it was thought well to change the title.

There was considerable talk on the part of officers and members over the fact that the demand for funds is in excess of the ability of the Association to furnish money for building. The fact that $34,000 in cash had to be paid out to maturing stockholders in the past year showed why that sum could not be loaned to would-be borrowers. There seems to be but one method of relief, to have more non-borrowing members, men and women who put in to save only. A suggestion to increase the number of shares one member can hold met with general disapproval, as it was found to work out badly.

A look ahead indicates that the demand for money for maturing shares will not be as great this year as last. At present there are 302 shares in the two maturing series, against 242 last year, that is, there are 60 more shares maturing, but the pledged shares are 195 this year against 115 last, or 80 more. This means that more shares will mature which will be re-paid by the cancellation of loans. It may be that the amount of the loans will not be as large as last year, but there are more of them, also more maturing shares.

There was the usual payment of dues before and after the meeting, which was called to order shortly after 8 by Vice President and acting President McMahon, who called on Secretary Kaull to read the financial report. The figures of the report have already appeared in the News, April 11.

In reading the report Secretary Kaull made a comparison of the gains or losses with last year. These showed that the loans on real estate are $55,950 more and the loans on shares $2,890 in excess of last year. The total assets are $63,281.89 more than for the last annual report. The dividends for the year were $5,578.62 more than last year and the guaranty fund was increased by $701.70.

On the cash account the receipts from dues showed a gain of $24,293, and the receipts from interest, fees and fines were $3,543.69 more than in 1913. The loans re-paid on real estate were $5,325, and on shares $3,400 more than last year. The loans cancelled by maturity, while aggregating $17,425, were $25 less than last year.

The new loans on real estate were $5,075 in excess of last year and on shares $10,000 more. The value of the matured shares was $2,003.74 more and the amount of withdrawn stock $10,630.16 more. The expense was $559.67 less, due to the fact that last year was moving year. It was found necessary to borrow $34,000 from the bank to meet maturing shares, as against $8,000 the year before. That told wonders as to why there was not more money for would-be borrowers.

After the reading of the statement President McMahon had something to say. He had already referred to the death of Captain Cotton and to the fact that this was the first meeting the latter had missed since the organization of the Association, of which he was such an important part. He then referred back to the time when the Association was formed, in Bryer's hall, March 9, 1888. The first annual meeting was held March 15, 1889. At that time the first annual report showed there were 188 members, holding 1,051 shares with a total value of $12,771.07. Today there are 1,292 members, holding 10,715 shares of a total value of $560,250.76. The past year has been the greatest in the history of the organization, more than 3,500 shares having been issued. The total amount of dues paid into the Association since the beginning is $1,746,187.71.

He then called upon Mr T. T. Pitman, chairman of the committee on revision of the by-laws, to make a report. It was found that certain minor changes were needed and a committee of the directors was appointed to make them. Mr. Pitman made the report, explaining each change. Some idea of their nature may be had from one or two. The by-laws limited the capital to $500,000; this has been ex-

PREACHER OF EXPERIENCE.

Rev. A. P. Anderson, New Pastor of the Swedish M. E. Church.

Rev. August P. Anderson, the new pastor of the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church, who is already settled with his family in the parsonage on Annandale road, will begin his work here Sunday. He was born in Sweden and came to this country, as a young man, 24 years ago. He has since traveled extensively, Rhode Island being the ninth state in which he has resided.

He entered upon the work of the ministry, as a local preacher 16 years ago, in California. Later he was graduated from the Swedish Theological Seminary at Evanston, Ill. Upon coming east he was stationed for four years in Gardner, Mass., and during the past five years has had charge of the work in New Haven. During that time he built a new church, and last year took special studies in the Yale Divinity School. He is one of the leading members of the Eastern Swedish Conference and enters upon work here with enthusiasm.

POLICE NOTES.

The police added nothing to history this morning, having no prisoners before the court. They had rounded up a number of boys who were about the beach pavilion after the recent ball, and had taken some articles from the convention hall. They were given a "lecture," as were the boys who were at the Point at the Shipley place. There were no criminal charges, but the boys were told that they must try to stick to the right path if they would grow up right.

Friday a boy's go cart was reported as stolen down town. Later it was found. It had been requisitioned as an express wagon to carry wire netting, and is again in the custody of its owner.

From the Mary Street playground comes a real tale of woe. There was a ball game on the playground and a ball was driven through the window of Mr. Smith's house, on the street. The boys were good sports, and had the pane of glass replaced, but they learned that Miss Smith had burned the ball. The question is what will be done about it.
